May Outline Foreign Policy Of Soviet Russia

MOSCOW, Oct. 31.—Formal annexation of two large slices of Poland, and a possible statement on foreign policy by Premier Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav M. Molotov, were the chief developments expected at the fifth extraordinary meeting of the supreme council of Soviets opening in Moscow today.

The council (parliament) is set to begin at 7 p. m. (12 noon EST.) Delegations are due from the West Ukraine and Polish White Russia, where sovietization already has been voted at local councils.

Whether the new units will join the U. S. S. R., as separate soviets in the federal system, or will be united with the present Ukrainian and White Russian Soviet republics, was uncertain.

Norway Report Says Five Ships Sunk By Subs

Submarines Waited Until Warship Convoy Turned Back, Then Attacked

SHIPS DEPARTED FROM GIBRALTAR ON OCT. 14

World Watching Thrilling Drama Of Sea In Voyage Of Seized U. S. Ship

(International News Service)

Britain's repeated efforts to depredate the success of the German U-boat campaign in the first two months of the war received a severe setback today with news from Norway that five out of 27 merchantmen under British escort were sunk by three submarines.

Not even during the World war was such a successful attack made on a convoy group, except when both surface craft and submarines were used.

Arrival of the Swedish liner Bardand at Oslo revealed that the British freighter Clan Chisholm and four others in a convoy which set out from Gibraltar Oct. 14 were torpedoed and sent to the bottom.

Some of the 61 Clan Chisholm survivors sail British naval vessels escorted the 27 ships in a full day out of Gibraltar.

Subs Lay In Wait

The submarines, apparently, lay in wait until the warships turned back, then struck suddenly. Fate of 41 Indian sailors on the Clan Chisholm remains unknown.

The score-board of ship losses, so far as can be authenticated, today stood as follows:

Registry, ships tonnage
British, 50 233,751
French, 6 42,719
German, 4 14,764
Neutral, 32 82,670
Totals, 92 373,904

German sources say British losses are much higher; while the British point out that only one per cent of their merchant fleet has been (Cont. ed On Page Two)

PARIS, Oct. 31.—For the first time in the war, German heavy artillery today opened up concentrated fire deep inside French territory.

The main target was an unidentified village a little over seven miles behind the lines. Shells damaged the town, it was semi-officially admitted, but all information about location of the village was suppressed.

Drawing heavy French fire in return, the German barrage remained localized.

Embargo Repeal Measure Facing First House Test

Motion To Send Neutrality Bill To Conference With Senate Pends

OUTCOME TO SHOW HOUSE ATTITUDE

Opponents To Administration To Seek Several Amendments To Bill

By EDWARD B. LOCKETT
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—The senate-approved arms embargo repeal neutrality bill meets its first big test in the house today, on a motion to send the legislation to conference with the senate for settlement of differences between the senate and house bills.

Administration forces backing the conference motion claimed victory. Nevertheless, opposition leaders were hopeful that wavering members would flock to their side at the last minute and recommit the measure to committee for amendment.

Vote This Afternoon

The vote will come in the early afternoon following an hour of debate on the rule to send the bill to conference. After that, providing the rule is adopted, motions to instruct the house conferees—in effect moves to amend the bill—will be in order and the big fight will be on.

Defeat of the conference rule, on the other hand, would automatically send the bill to the house foreign affairs committee and, in the words of Rules Committee Chairman Samuel C. (D) Illinois, "indicate an indisposition on the part of the house to consider the legislation as drafted and passed by the senate."

The measure passed by the house at the regular session retained the arms embargo to all belligerents.

Says She Was In Hiding In Corn Field Short Distance From Hospital

(International News Service)

PHOENIX, Ariz., Oct. 31.—Exhausted and hysterical Winnie Ruth Judd, Arizona's notorious trunk murderer, was back in her bed at the state mental hospital today, seven days after she escaped from the institution.

Dirty, disheveled and with holes worn through the ragged stockings on her shoeless feet, Winnie Ruth appeared at the hospital last evening and told startled attendants:

"Well, here I am."

With these words, as she was escorted to the office of Superintendent Louis J. Two German Merchant Ships Conveying Captured Vessel, Stops At Tromsø, Norway

(International News Service)

OSLO, Oct. 31.—The American freighter City of Flint, enroute to a undisclosed German port under command of a Nazi prize crew, is being conveyed by two German merchant ships, it was learned in Oslo today.

The City of Flint called at Tromsø, Norway, yesterday on her way to Germany from Murmansk, Russia.

Fascist militia, General Ettore Muti, formerly in charge of Fascist activities abroad, supplanted Starace in the general secretaryship.

Wholesale replacements of key men came as evidence that Premier Mussolini is adhering to his maxim: "Keep the government young," by which he keeps a constant supply of new leaders coming along.

Some of the changes, it was explained, are designed to inject new initiative and strength into the government and thereby develop the country internally.

Graziani, for instance, is known for his extreme energy, although he is 57 years old.

General Muti, who now holds the key post in the Fascist party, with only 11 years as his superior, is at 37 the most decorated Fascist hero of the Ethiopian and Spanish campaigns.

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 31.—A man and a woman, married, but not to each other, were found dead today beside an automobile parked in an abandoned lane near Bishop's corner, about five miles from suburban Carnegie.

They were identified as Rocco Catena, 55, of Sturgeon, Pa., father of four children, and Mrs. John Sherman, 35, of Sturgeon, Pa., mother of two children, police said. Near Catena's feet was found a .32 calibre revolver with four bullets discharged.

State Policeman P. E. Seeler estimated the couple had been dead for 10 hours or more. In the automobile was found a crude diary, written on a store charge-account book, giving incoherent details of drinking parties, police said. Saxe, Mrs. Judd became highly excited, "mentally unstable and her outburst assumed dangerous proportions."

Dr. Saxe said attempts would be made to question the demented slayer some time today, explaining that for his part he was content that she is safely back in our custody.

Hid Near Hospital

According to Winnie Ruth's story she had been hiding on the hospital grounds, with the exception of the brief visit she made to the home of her parents in Phoenix, Rev. and Mrs. H. C. McKinnell, all the while the gigantic search, which extended into the entire southwest and Mexico, was being conducted.

She even, it was learned, slipped through a cordon of deputies who had been stationed around the hospital grounds to get back to the hospital. She got as far as her own ward before she met two attendants. "I told them I would come back," she shouted over and over again.

Was Half Starved

An examination of the half-starved murderer, who appeared to have eaten little since her flight which began early last Wednesday, showed her to be near complete exhaustion.

The doctors reported her very much worse for wear, Dr. Saxe said.

Mrs. Judd's presence was detected shortly before she surrendered. Two hospital attendants discovered a suit case belonging to her, which had been discarded in the rear of the hospital ground residence of Mel Larson, building engineer.

Later investigation showed Mrs. Judd had burglarized Larson's residence, stealing food and clothing which she stuffed into the suitcase and later discarded.

Deaths of the Day

Mrs. Harry B. Clark

Mrs. Sarah Jane Shellenberger Clark, wife of Harry B. Clark, died at 10:10 p. m. Sunday at her home, Greenville, R. D. 5, Coal Hill road, following an illness of one year.

Mrs. Clark was born in New Castle 62 years ago and was a member of the Christian and Missionary Alliance church. She lived here until three years ago.

Surviving in addition to her husband are, one son, Forrest Eakin, of Darlington, and the following brothers and sisters: Clyde Shellenberger of New Galilee, George of New Castle, Wayne of Binghamton, N. Y., Glenn of Koppel, Mrs. Bella McCowin of New Castle, Mrs. Bertha Barber of Beaver Falls, Mrs. Flo Dutsch of Columbus, O., and Mrs. Margaret Adams of New Galilee. The second husband of the deceased, Thomas Carroll, died in New Castle four years ago.

Funeral services will be conducted from the residence, Greenville, R. D. 5, at 2 p. m. Wednesday, with interment in the Perry Chapel cemetery, Clarks Mills.

Mrs. Parrino Funeral

Services for the late Mrs. Carman Parrino, of North Wayne street, took place Monday morning at 10:30 o'clock in St. Lucy's church in the presence of a large number of friends and relatives. The Sodality, in charge of Mrs. T. C. Rainey, president, and Mrs. James Zampello, attended in a body, and six members served as pallbearers.

Solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated by the pastor, Rev. Fr. S. Ippolito. Rev. Fr. N. DeMita, of St. Vitus church, was deacon of the mass, and Rev. Fr. Vincent Galliano, of Ellwood City, was sub-deacon.

Pallbearers were Nicola Zuccauli, Mary Enzo, Mary Iannella, Carlo Russo, Anna Russo and Mary Mastrodotti. Interment was in St. Lucy's cemetery.

Cy Graham Services

Impressive services for the late Roy (Cy) Graham, of Chestnut street, were conducted in the Cunningham funeral home on Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Rev. W. A. Thornton, pastor of Epworth Methodist church, was in charge of the services and read a poem, "There is No Death."

Members of the American Legion were the flower bearers. They also conducted military rites in memory of their deceased brother at Oak Park cemetery.

Pallbearers were Bennie McCann, Casey Russell, Robert Russell, Cal Leslie, Earl Dart and James Jowley.

Funeral of Mrs. Swisher

Funeral services for Mrs. Jay J. Swisher took place at 3 p. m. Monday in her North Beaver township home, with Rev. Philip C. Pearson, rector of Trinity Episcopal church, New Castle, in charge, assisted by Rev. C. R. Stroble, Methodist minister from New Waterford.

Many relatives and friends were present. Beautiful flowers surrounded the casket, in further tribute to the deceased.

Pallbearers were Cal Martin, Glen Davidson, Charles Brandt, Roy Harriger, Charles McClane and William Fox. Interment was in Market street cemetery, Petersburg, O.

Pasqualino Services

Funeral rites for Ralph Pasqualino, of Sennett street, were conducted in the First Pentecostal church Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, with the pastor Rev. A. Newton Chase, in charge, assisted by Rev. Frank Maruso of the Italian Christian church.

Two beautiful and touching hymns were sung by Mrs. Rose Bender and Mrs. John Freed, with Robert Krempel as accompanist.

Pallbearers were Charles Mitoio, Michael Kiltch, Patsy Nopodona, Samuel DeMase, Sullivan Pasquella, and Dominick Miller. Interment was in Greenwood cemetery.

Orest Ritchie Funeral

High mass of requiem for the late Orest Ritchie, of 507 Canyon street, was celebrated at 9 o'clock this morning in St. Vitus church, with Rev. Fr. N. DeMita, the pastor, officiating.

A great many friends of the tragic automobile accident victim were present for the sad occasion.

Pallbearers were Joe DeLillo, Raymond Ritchie, Paul Lesta, Tony Paglia, Albert Ritchie and Charles Micco. Interment was made in St. Vitus cemetery. An impressive committal service was conducted, with Rose Riggio in charge.

Mrs. Carpenter Services

Funeral services for Mrs. Ida Carpenter were conducted from the home on Eddy street Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock with Rev. Samuel Baker of the Clifton Flats Mission, in charge.

The pallbearers were Claude Thompson, Russell Stewart, Walter Baskerville, Charles Porterfield, William Bowden and Philip Reno. Interment was in Valley View cemetery.

RECIPROCAL TREATIES ENGINEERED BY HULL, UNDER CONGRESS FIRE

fore they can become effective, brought to a head the opposition to the proposed agreement with Argentina.

In an exchange of correspondence between Assistant Secretary of State Henry P. Grady and Vanderbilt, the administration insisted its reciprocal trade agreements program is constitutional.

Grady told the governor that "unfortunately" consideration of this program is only too frequently obscured by opposition of a partisan political nature."

Vanderbilt, contending the trade agreement with France is injuring the Rhode Island lace industry, urged that the question be settled by the supreme court.

If the department is so sure the program is legal, the governor wrote, it should not fear any court test. To this Grady responded with the observation that "There can, of course, be no objection to such proceedings when properly initiated through the established legal procedure."

Strong Attack Seen

The congressional attack on the program will be directed by a strong bipartisan group before expiration of the present act, next June. Leaders of the group include Senators Borah (R) Idaho; McNary (R) Oregon, minority leader; O'Mahoney (D) Wyoming, and Johnson and Adams, Colorado Democrats.

Although the fight will center around a resolution of O'Mahoney, to give the senate power of ratification, McNary predicted enough opposition to the program to prevent its renewal.

Declaring the agreements are treaties and therefore subject to senate approval, Borah said:

"I believe that the American market belongs exclusively to the American farmer to the full extent of his ability to supply it. I know that he is able to supply the American market today, and unless he is given the American market, he cannot hope to recover the position where he has any degree of prosperity upon the American farm.

Farmer Needs Protection

"The American farmer must have the cost of production, if he is to stay on the farm; and I maintain that that is utterly impossible if he is made to compete even in a limited degree with those agricultural nations which produce for about three-fourths or one-half what it costs the American farmer to produce."

O'Mahoney said he sympathizes with the "political" objective of the proposed Argentina and Uruguay agreements "for welding all of the nations of the Western Hemisphere into a political and commercial whole," but that they are being advanced "as a sacrifice to the weak agricultural interests."

Adams termed the program unconstitutional on the grounds that it involves a taxing power that rightfully belong to congress. He also held that the pacts are treaties and subject to senate approval.

The senators were divided over the constitutional question of whether trade agreements, extending beyond possible expiration of the act, would be legal. Adams, however, held that all pacts would be automatically set aside if the act were allowed to expire.

HALLOWE'EN

MORE honored nowadays in the breach than the observance is the custom of malicious mischief-making on Halloween, the traditional night when witches, devils and spirits of darkness are abroad and looking for trouble. So are the police authorities in most communities, and they recognize no supernatural excuses for destruction of property on Halloween.

Fortunately there are many other traditions attached to the night before All Hallows Day which do not quarrel with the law. The night of October 31 has other names than Halloween. It is called Nutcrack Night and Snapapple Night. And in its suitable and harmless celebration are involved customs and ceremonies which go far back in human history. They come from classical mythology and Druidic mysteries, as well as early Christian rituals. Some ancient observances have disappeared though once well approved. "In olde tyme," says a book of the early sixteenth century, "good people wolde on All halowen daye bake brade and dele it for all crysten soules." And for this remote reason, perhaps, the evening is still called Cake Night in some places.

Halloween is so variously celebrated that any sort of innocent merriment is appropriate. But the mischief-making associated with the festival, for the most part, is an American invention and corruption of the night's traditions. Fortunately it is no longer in fashion to substitute rowdiness for the kindly old customs of Halloween, and there is no need to make allowances for those who do so.

GIRL SCOUT WEEK

This is Girl Scout Week. Throughout the nation a fitting tribute will be paid this very valuable organization. In these days when women play so important a part in the life of the nation it becomes very necessary to train our girls in the right ideals of character and citizenship. This is but one of the many valuable contributions that this splendid organization is making with its thousands of members all over the country.

In addition to the training in character and citizenship, there is a wide variety of other activities that enter in to the development of these young ladies all of which are very much worth while.

The 521 Girl Scouts of New Castle covet your interest and support. The membership should be more than doubled, but the girls need your help if they are to prosper and grow in numbers and influence. Support your Girl Scouts with your interest and money and New Castle will reap the reward in a better citizenship.

STATE APPEALS TO TOURISTS

Richard P. Brown, who has had charge of the advertising campaign to attract tourists to the state of Pennsylvania, is authority for the statement that tourists spent at least $400,000,000 in Pennsylvania last year.

If this statement is true, or even if it is only 50 per cent true, then the $50,000 appropriated by the state legislature in 1939 for tourist promotion was one of the wisest investments ever made.

"Tourist business in Pennsylvania last year gave us about a million dollars more in gasoline taxes than we otherwise would have received," says Mr. Brown. This tax went directly to the state, and as it is about 20 times the amount of the original advertising appropriation, there must be recorded one bit of spending on which the state made a rich return.

Many kinds of business profited by this tourist trade, especially small business. The gasoline stations, the overnight camps, the hotels, the eating places, garages, stores are just a few that got their share of those many millions.

It is but natural, therefore, that a larger appropriation is to be sought for next year in order to advertise Pennsylvania even more widely. And if the record of last year means anything, it is well that this be done.

MACHINES—AND MEN—OUT OF PLACE

Rear Admiral Byrd will start for the Antarctic next month taking, among other things, giant snow cruiser 60 feet long, weighing 15 tons, mounted on four huge rubber-tired wheels, and designed especially for the roadless, snowy ice-cracked wastes close to the South Pole. Inside are accommodations for men; on top an airplane can be transported.

For its purpose, it seems a splendid gadget. Yet on a pre-expedition tour over the United States during the last few days it collided with a truck on a highway not built for such monsters; a little later it ran into a ditch and got stuck.

This brings up our old friend suitability for environment, limitation to purpose. A war tank crossing rough terrain is amazingly deft; it would be inefficient as a school bus or in city traffic. Plenty of other things—and people—fit nicely in familiar environments, work splendidly where originally adapted, produce results in their proper place.

A marvelous kindergarten teacher might be a total loss in a college; a foreigner with a title, a cowboy or woodsman, might have romantic appeal in his natural setting, but removed from his native element in the status of a husband could cause grief. A fish out of water is no exaggerated simile; misplaced fish are often found in business offices, in governmental halls and in the professions.

Admiral Byrd's snow cruiser, if able to speak, would yearn for the white open spaces of the southland where it could prove itself efficient—and appreciated.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

TREATING PARENTS TO CURE CHILD OF NERVOUSNESS

The mother of an eight and one-half-year-old child writes:

"She is a very nervous child and has always chewed her nails. We tried ignoring this habit but lately I have tried to teach her to have pride in her nails. I told her that when her nails got real long I would put bright red polish on them. This idea seems to appeal to her, but during any excitement her fingers fly to her mouth."

"I spank her occasionally with a ruler on her bare bottom. This sounds cruel, but my hand alone makes no impression whatever. I also put her in a chair for 15 to 20 minutes when she disobeys me, but she almost drives me frantic asking if the clock says its time to get down." Then she will sneak down but run back when she sees me looking at her.

"My husband is a school teacher and is rather flighty and nervous. In spite of this, he is a very good teacher and 'has a way' with the school children. It is only when he comes home tired and wants to read the paper for a few minutes that our little girl makes him nervous. She wants to sit on his lap, but when she gets there, she climbs all over him and won't be still a minute. In fact, she very rarely is still. In the house or outside she runs continuously."

Much Tough

"I simply have not been able to teach her to look at other people's things without touching them. When we go visiting, she handles everything and usually I sit on the edge of my chair during the entire visit. If she and I go in a store, she will not let me hold her hand and yet, if I do not, she wanders all over the store and sometimes comes back with her arms loaded. I always take her back and make her return the articles, trying at the same time to explain why she should not do this."

"My answer in part—Your first problem is with the parents. You, Mother, need to relax more. Keep the radio off, except for soft music, while the child is awake."

"Dead needs to get a new philosophy. Then he can learn, on coming home, to let the paper wait until he has had some time with the child. He should read rhymes and stories to her from illustrated books, expecting her not to jump around while he reads. If she does stir about, he could cease reading and refuse to entertain her further for exactly half an hour."

Argue Too Much

After he has read to her, say for 30 minutes, he could properly shift, with adequate warning, to reading the newspaper, and resume reading to the child after a definite announced time.

You explain and argue too much to the child. You warn and threaten and then, when you lose your temper, it is the ruler. Clearly give a forbidding just once. Punish her immediately for failure to cease promptly, assigning her to sit for exactly 20 minutes. If she leaves the chair before the clock rings, give her a good spanking. Allow not a single exception.

Until she has learned complete control at home, keep her from the store or other people's homes, or hold her all the time she is there. And show her more love and affection when she is good.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

STRANGE!

Secretary Wallace's forebears were newspaper men. His family still publishes a farm newspaper with a wide circulation.

Secretary Wallace came to the position as head of the Agricultural Department of the United States Government seemingly better equipped than any other available man and his actions as Secretary cannot be condoned because of the lack of knowledge which he should have possessed. If he does possess a real farm knowledge, how he could sanction the destruction of livestock—pigs and cows, and the curtailment of the planting of cereals necessary for the preservation of life, is something that no thinking man can understand.

He has surrounded himself in his Department with men with more or less knowledge of farming. Some of them seem to have very little although they have come to the Department well recommended.

"Do you know," said one of these young chaps, who had been graduated from an agricultural college to an old farmer, "your methods of cultivation are a hundred years behind the times?"

Waving his hand over a field, he continued: "Why, I would be surprised if you made Ten Dollars out of the oats in this field."

"So would I," smiled the farmer. "It's barley."

Readers' Questions Answered
Dear Miss Markel: My sister is going to have her baby christened at her home. She asked me to write to you for instructions as to what preparations she should make for the ceremony and the refreshments for the guests a little later—G. E. Answer: In the room where the ceremony will occur, there should be a table covered with a white cloth. A bowl, partially filled with water should be placed thereon to be used as a font. Flowers, of course, will add a cheerful note to the room, especially if placed behind the font.

A room should be prepared for the clergyman's use when putting on his vestments, etc.

A short time before the hour set for the ceremony, the guests arrive and are received informally by the proud parents. When all is ready, the baby is brought in by either the godmother or one of the parents, if there is to be no godmother. The ceremony then proceeds in the usual way, the godmother (if there is one) holding the baby.

President's Delay Causes Comment
Successor To Swanson Not Named Yet
Is Waiting Until Congress Adjourns

By CHARLES P. STEWART

Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31—

WHY President Roosevelt has been so slow about naming a successor to the late Claude A. Swanson of the navy is by no means clear.

During the months following

Swanson's death Charles Edison has been acting secretary. For that matter, he was, in effect, head of the department throughout the period of his superior's long last illness.

It's the consensus that he's handled the job very efficiently. When

Swanson died the general assumption was that Edison would be appointed to fill the vacancy. But he hasn't been. He's remained simply

"acting."

Today it's reported that the White House will make a selection "after congress adjourns." Why afterward? Why not now? If Edison were picked it's a foregone conclusion that the senate would confirm him in short order.

The conclusion's unescapable that he won't be the presidential choice —that F. D. R. has in mind somebody he likes better but who, perhaps he thinks, won't be so popular.

But just why Edison shouldn't be 100 per cent satisfactory to him is a puzzle. Between him and the executive mansion there never has been a hint of the slightest friction.

It's hard to guess on any other ground than that the president wants a slicker politician. Charles a world's wonder at the upholding of a navy, but he isn't much of a dab at politics. He isn't an advertiser of any consequence, either.

Other Cabinet Changes?

There's been talk of other cabinet changes, but they don't look probable.

Secretary of War Harry H. Woodring and Assistant Secretary Louis

Johnson supposedly don't agree worth a cent, and it frequently is surmised that the administration would be pleased to wish Woodring out in favor of Johnson. That, however, would create a smell that wouldn't be pleasant.

State Secretary Hull couldn't be dislodged with a charge of dynamite. Ultra-protectionists growl about his trade treaties, but there's no substantial fight against him.

In fact, if he were a little younger, he'd be good Democratic presidential timber.

Treasury Secretary Morgenthau

isn't adversely criticized.

No great amount of fault is found with Attorney General Frank Murphy.

The mail service has been terrible under Postmaster General James A.

Farley, but it already had begun to degenerate under his Republican predecessor, Walter Brown. Possibly Farley has made it a little worse, but not appreciably worse.

Of course Roosevelt and Farley have been rumored to be at odds, but if so, their squabble apparently has been liquidated.

Illness and Things

Commerce Secretary Harry L.

Hopkins can't be eliminated.

He's sick. It would be inhuman to tie a cabinet man on him at the present juncture.

Agriculture Secretary Henry A.

Wallace's farm program is described as a "proved failure." Yet nobody has offered a very convincing substitute.

Heaven knows that Commerce

Secretary Harold L. Ickes' economic book doesn't take you anywhere.

And Labor Secretary Perkins is

College Professor Sees World At Small Cost

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Oct. 31.—Adventure and romance are to be found in great quantities in "traveling on a shoestring," is the philosophy of Prof. W. R. Biggs, Westminister college head, who made his fifth "travelling" trip this summer, a paddle-wheel steam boat trip down the Mississippi.

BIGGS

On their first "travelling" on a shoestring" vacation, spending less than $500 for the entire three months vacation. This included freighter passage to and from England, cycling for a month in the British Isles, ten days in Paris, and train fare to and from Pennsylvania.

On their second and third trips, the Biggs journeyed into the heart of Mexico, staying one time for three months and another time for three weeks. Including 4,000 miles of automobile travel and staying in Mexico City for over two months, the Biggs' budget was kept under $200, total expenses, for the entire summer.

This past summer, the "economy travellers" boarded a paddle-wheeler at St. Louis, drifted down the Mississippi, Ohio and Tennessee rivers, and disembarked at Muskegon, Michigan. From here, they drove to New Orleans and spent ten days in the bayou country to the south of Louisiana's leading city, before motoring back to Pennsylvania, with total costs less than $100.

On their fifth journey, the Biggs hiked for two weeks over the famous Long Trail, which travels across the top of the Green Mountains of Vermont, stopping overnight in shelters built every five miles along the 200-mile trail. Only expense for the two weeks was ten dollars in food, carried in knapsacks, while walking over the New England trail.

Next trip planned by Professor and Mrs. Biggs of the "travelling" on a shoestring" variety is a hill-billy trip on horseback through the Ozark mountains of southern Missouri and north Arkansas.

Professor Biggs makes his summer trips "pay for themselves" through writing articles.

Sunday Movies Before Voters

Eighteen Districts In State To Ballot On Question On November 7

(International News Service) PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 31.—At least eighteen districts in Pennsylvania will have referenda November 7 on the question of Sunday motion pictures and two others will vote on Sunday sports, a survey by Rev. William B. Forney, secretary of the Lord's Day Alliance, has shown.

Newburg, Clearfield county, and Palmyra, Lebanon county, will vote on the sports issue, Dr. Forney said, while the communities to ballot on Sunday motion pictures include:

Bristol township, Bucks county; Forty Fort, Luzerne; Shingle House, Potter; New Philadelphia, Schuylkill; Wellsboro, Blossburg, Mansfield, Elkland and Westfield, Tioga; Roscoe, Washington; Koppel and Freedom, Beaver; Mifflinburg, Union; Coalport borough and Bigler township, Clearfield; Mount Penn and West Reading, Berks; Black Lick, Cambria.

Under the new state law, referenda can be held every five years on the movie-sports issue. "The big fight will come in 1940 when many districts where Sunday movies and sports were opposed in 1935 will vote again," Dr. Forney said.

Fascists Change High Secretary

Shift Of Major Size In Fascist Party In Rome Is Announced Today

(International News Service) ROME, Oct. 31.—In a major shift in highest Fascist circles, Achille Starace today was succeeded by General Ettore Muli as secretary general of the Fascist party.

Starace, party secretary since 1932, a veteran Fascist and long one of the two or three men closest to Premier Mussolini, was named head of the Fascist militia. The fact that Starace, a former army officer who led troops in the field during the Ethiopian conquest, was made commander of the powerful militia would seem to indicate that he has not fallen from favor.

Dino Alfieri, now minister of popular culture and a member of the Fascist grand council, was nominated as ambassador, but his foreign post was not designated. General Muli has been inspector of Fascists living abroad.

Quick first aid... costs little now!

MANY A LITTLE CUT or scratch has gone untended...

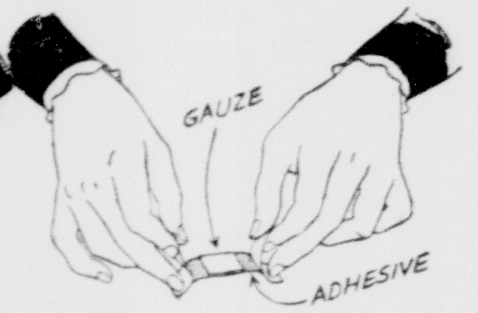

But why take such a risk, when after proper treatment it can be so easily, so quickly, covered by a Band-Aid?

Band-Aid is a Johnson & Johnson product, one of a line of products that has been respected and used by doctors for years. In line with our policy of making our products available to more and more people, we have constantly sought ways to lower the price.

Band-Aid, for instance, is only one-third the price of even its depression years' low. ALL Red Cross Products cost only a fraction of their price of years ago.

Even modest-income homes can now afford to use Johnson & Johnson first aid necessities.

Applications for hunting licenses at the office of County Treasurer, V. I. Mandich, passed the 2200 mark today. The office is being kept open until 6 o'clock this evening to accommodate eleventh hour applicants.

Election supplies to be used at the coming election on November 7, have arrived at the county commissioners office, and are now being unpacked. It is expected that the ballots will be ready by the latter part of this week.

A few more days of fine weather and the contractors will have the roof on the new addition to the court house. The interior of the building will be ready for the plasterers within a few days.

In the case of Harry W. List against Ike and Jennie Philips, in which defendants made a motion to open judgment, List has filed an answer in which he maintains that the price of a black mare was $100 instead of $75, and that he holds a note for the latter amount.

In preparations for the election on November 7, S. H. Alken has been appointed deputy constable for the third district of Slippery Rock township, and Harry Wilkison for the second, upon recommendation of the constable of that township.

In the case of Dominick Depedro, who was charged with obstructing the execution of a legal process in the hands of J. R. Moore, tax collector, Pulaski township, Judge Dickey has sentenced Depedro to pay the costs in the case within three months.

George Snyder, who was sentenced to pay costs in connection with a charge of violation of the motor code, has asked the court to grant him additional time. Judge Brahm directed that he pay the costs during the next twelve months.

Seventy-five instruments of all kinds were filed at the office of Register and Recorder, Orville Potter last week. Of this number 34 were deeds and 25 mortgages. Five of the mortgages, totaling $9,800 were given to banks; six, for $7,500 to individuals, and 14, for $22,500 to building and loan associations.

Several orders in desertion and non-support cases were made following hearings before Judge W. Walter Brahm and Thomas W. Dickey. In the case of Amy Demas against Peter Demas, the latter was directed to pay $3 per week. Lois Chaney against William Chaney, defendant to pay $25 per month for the support of wife and two children. Martha Reed against Delbert Reed, continued by agreement. Margaret Adams against R. C. Adams, order reduced from $18 to $16 per month. Dorothy Emery against E. R. Emery, continued by agreement. Mary Logan against Edward Logan of 1710 Hamilton street defendant to pay $6.50 per pay. Mae Kelly against Phillips Kelly, defendant to pay $55 per month. Mabel Nyza against John Nyza, case continued.

In the case of Anna Seller against Catherine Walsh and Mary Quinn in which defendants were charged with disorderly conduct in making loud and boisterous noises, Judge Brahm sentenced defendants to pay $10 each and costs, sentence to be suspended upon the payment of the costs, one-half to be paid by each defendant.

Mrs. Al Jolson Files For Divorce

All Hopes For Reconciliation Of Mammy Singer And Wife Seem Dashed

(International News Service)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 31.—Mammy singer Al Jolson's hopes for a reconciliation with his petite wife Ruby Keeler seemed dashed for good today after the dancing star had filed suit for divorce on the grounds of cruelty. It was the end of an 11-year marriage.

Just twenty words were used to charge cruelty:

"Since their marriage, defendant has treated plaintiff with extreme cruelty and has caused plaintiff grievous mental and physical suffering thereby."

The stage and screen actress gave no other details concerning Jolson's asserted conduct which she blamed for their separation last October 19.

The prospect of peace grows brighter. When they get things so tangled they don't know who is fighting whom, they'll have to stop.

Mrs. Mario Prabhotta captured the high score prize in cards, and Mrs. Joseph Letta won the club token. Plans were discussed for a sausage fry.

At a later hour, the hostess served lunch, assisted by the members.

November 13, is the date for the next meeting at the home of Mrs. Mario Prabhotta, 254 West Grant street.

Dance Students Prance

One of the many delightful Halloween parties of the past few nights was that given by Jacques Van Ipe for junior students in his dancing school. Seventy five guests were present, including some friends and parents. Fifty or more youngsters, arrayed in all kinds of masquerade costumes, spent the evening most enjoyably with games and dancing to tunes furnished by a small orchestra. The event took place in the ballroom on Neshannock avenue, which was appropriately fixed up in Halloween trappings.

Skansky-Milton

Sophie Skansky, 301 Mahoning avenue, and Paul Milton, Neshannock avenue, were united in marriage Saturday morning at the Madonna church, with Rev. Fr. Sze-long, officiating.

The couple's attendants were Miss Nellie Sczymanski and John Popolis. Guests were present from Farrell and Cleveland, O.

After a brief wedding trip to Cleveland, the couple will reside at 458 Neshannock avenue.

WEDDING ANNIVERSARY FOR MR. AND MRS. CARR

Honoring the 20th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. John Carr, of Bessemer, a group of friends assembled in their home, Oak street, Monday evening, for a social gathering.

Cards held sway for the group, with high score prizes going to Jessie Carr, Mrs. John Carr, Harry Emery and Mrs. Sam Davis.

A delicious lunch was served to guests numbering 20, by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Olive Emery and Mrs. Jenny Tenin.

As special guests they had Mr. and Mrs. Sam Davis of New Castle.

Finding Of Papers
Along River Bank
Occasions Mystery*County And State Officers Look Into Find Made By Boys Near State Line

Considerable mystery surrounds the finding of some papers and personal belongings on the banks of the Mahoning river near the Ohio line, on Friday, October 27. The papers have been turned over to County Detective Paul A. Welsh and with State Motor Patrolmen Ray Showers, R. O. McCullough, an investigation has been under way.

Among the papers found were a discharge from the Italian Army dated April 9, 1918, two declarations of intention to become a citizen, one in the name of Francisca Antonio Rocco and one in the name of Giuseppe Reitano. Another is a receipt for 2500 lire sent to Italy in October, 1922.

The find was made by Adam Butch of Lowellville, O. R. D. 2, Ralph Book and William Zarlingo of Hillsville. The boys told County Detective Welsh that there was a valise with some clothes in it on the banks but they had not taken the valise when they found the papers. Later they returned and the valise was missing.

Investigation revealed the fact that Francisca Rocco had lived in Youngstown, O., had left a wife and three children in Italy, and in 1931 had disappeared from Youngstown. Since then he has not been heard of.

Approximately 50 property owners appeared today before the board of appeals and tax revision when the latter convened in city hall today.

They presented appeals concerning the triennial assessment for 1940-1942, inclusive. The board is composed of city council.

It is unlikely any decisions will be made today because so far no decisions have yet been made relative to appeals from property-owners in other wards heard.

NAZI GERMANY
RESPONSIBLE FOR SAFETY OF CREW

latest action taken by Washington to ensure the safety of the Americans aboard the steamer as unwilling guests during its perilous journey from Tromsø, Norway, to some German Baltic port.

Acting on the instructions from Washington, Kirk communicated with the United States consulate at Hamburg.

Follow Ship

Officials there were told to follow each movement of the City of Flint with utmost care and to mobilize every possible representation to obtain a clear verdict when the case comes before the Hamburg prize court—assuming that it safely reaches Germany.

German authorities continued to maintain silence regarding the vessel's progress since she left Tromsø hurriedly after Norwegian authorities refused to comply with the prize crew's request for provisions.

If the City of Flint succeeds in running the British blockade, however, she is expected to reach port by Thursday.

Meanwhile, the German press began to lay the groundwork for the government's legal stand in the matter. The commander of the German prize crew, newspapers asserted, would be justified in sinking the vessel if his operations were hampered or endangered by an enemy warship or even if the City of Flint's cargo were found to be more than 50 per cent contraband.

Price Regulations

The influential Frankfurter Zeitung said:

"German-American prize regulations are still ruled by the Prussian-American treaty of 1785, which was renewed in 1928 and is valid today. This treaty contains a clause under which warships of either party can take at their own discretion all ships and property seized from the enemy wherever they wish."

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The initial date, 1785, cited by the Frankfurter Zeitung, preceded adoption, ratification and effectiveness of the U. S. constitution, legal foundation of the federal-state structure. Adopted in 1787 at the Philadelphia convention, the constitution was ratified the following year but was not declared effective by the newly-born republic until March, 1789.)

Cross Roll Call

To Meet Wednesday

Preliminary Gathering Will

Take Place In Penn Theater

Wednesday Morning

Workers who will take part in the 1939 Red Cross Roll Call will meet in the Penn Theatre Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock for a rally when preliminary instruction will be given and they will see movies of the Red Cross in action.

Rev. Father Joseph A. Doerr, chairman of the speakers committee will preside and a short talk will be given by Roll Call chairman Norman E. Clark.

Mrs. Harry L. Gormley, chairman of the Home Canvass will greet her workers, while remarks will also be made by George Reid, chairman of the Business District enrollment.

An invitation has been extended to all county workers and any others who are interested in the 1939 Roll Call to attend this first showing of the Red Cross pictures.

chairman, requests that all mumsers report promptly at 7:30 o'clock. The first division will form at the corner of Hamilton and East Long avenues; second division on Pollock and Long avenues; third division, above Pollock and East Long avenue; fourth division, Grimes and East Long avenues.

Three Bands

Three local bands will add the musical touch to the activities. The New Castle high band will move along with the first division; the Ben Franklin junior high musicians march in the second division and the Croton school band in the third division. South Side merchants want spectators against throwing objects that may harm the musicians or their instruments. Anyone violating this order will be arrested and severely punished.

The mumsers will be judged somewhere along the line of march. Those receiving tickets marked Lincoln and Garfield school gymnasium must report there at once to receive their cash awards.

A public address system, with Elmer Tinsman serving as announcer, has been installed on the corner of South Mill and East Long avenue. He will instruct the mumsers, judges, bands, etc., as to their positions, besides making other announcements of interest.

Request To Autoists

Harold Lebo, president of the South Side Board of Trade, today urges all motorists to refrain from parking their vehicles on East Long avenue, Moravia, South Mill and East Home street after 6 o'clock.

"Cooperation on the part of motorists will assure one of the most successful parades in the history of the city," Lebo said.

There aren't any restrictions in competition whatsoever. Anyone, from one to 99 years in age, is eligible to participate. The South Siders invite the public at large to spend the evening as their guests. With any kind of break from the weatherman, more than 15,000 persons are expected to witness the parade, the committeemen said.

A Christmas tinge will be part of the gala event. Christmas lights, usually on during the Yuletide season, will be turned on this afternoon at 5 o'clock.

Grand marshals include: Maurice Markley, second division; Dornick Clifton, third division.

The following aides have been named by Attorney Letia:

Declares China Will Win Out In War With Japan

Chinese Student At Dickinson College Says China Will "Outlast" Japan

(International News Service)
CARLISLE, Pa., Oct. 31.—China will "outlast" Japan in man-power and eventually win the undeclared Sino-Japanese war in China, in the opinion of I. Ying Li, graduate of Fochow, China, and an exchange student at Dickinson College.

"We are quite certain," he said, "that the final victory will be ours. We won't drive Japan out, perhaps, but we have much unused manpower that will outlast the invaders in time."

Li arrived three weeks late because of the outbreak of the European war which prompted him to cancel passage on a British liner to sail on an American vessel.

Compulsory military training in Chinese high schools and colleges constantly increases China's potential army of trained reserves, he explained. Li estimated China has 100,000,000 men, altogether, available for army duty at the present time.

Chinese sympathies are with the allies, he says, and thinks Japan also may line up with France and England against Germany. He doesn't think Japan would war on Russia, "because she fears Russia, and her war with us has weakened Japan a great deal."

He admitted, however, that "the whole matter is complicated by the fact that much of China's munitions are received from Russia." But he added, "we are not now in sympathy with Russia's new place in world affairs."

Li used four words to describe his interpretation of China's feeling toward Hitler. He said simply: "We don't like him."

B. And O. System

All shops on the B. and O. system, including New Castle, have been extremely busy during the past six weeks, as a result of the sudden upturn in business. B. and O. officials announce.

Since the middle of September 3,000 furloughed men have been called back to the B. and O. shops, here and elsewhere to handle this increase.

It is expected that the repair program will continue at least until the end of the year, when 13,000 locomotives and 360 locomotives will have been put in first-class running condition again.

Dr. Dafoe's Column On The Quintuplets And The Care Of Your Children

(Copyright 1939, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

DR. DAFOE EXPLAINS HOW TAPEWORM ENTERS SYSTEM

The life cycle of the pork tapeworm which we discussed yesterday is anything but simple. The pig becomes infected by eating the faeces of human beings who carry the worms. This usually occurs in cases where pigs are fed on garbage.

The worms in the pig take quite a different form than they do in humans, for they burrow into the muscle tissue of the animal, where they become encysted and there they remain.

When the pig is killed and eaten, the worms are taken into the human stomach. As the worm develops it attaches itself by the hooklets of its head to the wall of the intestine.

Other types of tapeworms those we get from eating beef and fish—are much the same as the pork tapeworm. They vary a little in size, for the beef worm frequently grows to forty feet in length in the victim's stomach and intestine. In appetite is sometimes a symptom of tapeworm but it doesn't necessarily follow that a child with a huge appetite has a tapeworm.

Not long ago the Quintuplets somehow found out about worms and tapeworms. I think they heard one of the nurses speak of them. So they wanted to know all about worms that were inside people. The nurse got out from under very nicely by suggesting that they ask me about it when I came to see them next time.

When I arrived at the nursery the next morning I was besieged with questions and requests to tell about the great big worms that grow inside. I told them as best I could as much as they could grasp. They were very much impressed and went about the rest of the day looking down each others' throats to see if they could see a tapeworm.

DAILY DOZEN

(From the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania)

"Oh, I have a cast-iron stomach!" Many individuals make this boastful statement.

But as they age, they complain of vague stomach trouble.

The entire digestive tract is an amazing piece of mechanism.

Along its entire length is an intricate system of nerves.

These are connected with each other and with the brain.

This system between brain and digestive tract may cause trouble.

Especially to people who are of a nervous disposition.

Nerves sometimes interfere with the normal processes of digestion.

Worry, fear or hate may bring on a digestive upset.

Persons with nervous indigestion do not always need medicine.

Their best cure is a determination to overcome mental agitation.

LEGION OF HONOR TO HAVE MEETING

Members of the Legion of Honor will meet Thursday evening in their rooms in The Cathedral, when final plans will be outlined for the fall reunion of the Consistory, which occurs next week.

Plans for other coming activities will be discussed. Commander Charles E. Allen announces.

The world's fears are justified now. When a man trades all of eastern Europe, the Baltic sea and top-place prestige for a piece of Poland, you know he's crazy.

Great Britain Now Building Nation's Greatest Air Armada

Production Is Being Speeded

Ready For Reprisals If Large Scale Aerial Attacks Are Initiated

MANY PILOTS ARE BEING TRAINED

By ROBERT G. NIXON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Oct. 31.—Great Britain, with an ever-increasing rate of production, is rapidly building the world's mightiest air armada to crush the Reich's strategic centers in swift reprisal if German bombers are unleashed for raids on England and Scotland, authoritative informants revealed today.

Construction of high-speed fighting planes and long-range bombers has outstripped German production for several months past, it was claimed.

Will Retaliate
High sources emphasized, however, that Britain and France have no intention of initiating a large-scale aerial war, but will strike back with all the allies' power the moment the Reich dares to attack any vital centers in this country.

The certainty of instant retaliation against German cities is believed to be a most important factor in restraining Germany from starting aerial warfare for the moment—unless Chancellor Hitler's reported impatience outweighs the advice of his military advisors.

"The moral effect of the terrific losses which a huge fleet of invading planes certainly would suffer, plus devastating reprisal, could not be withstood by the Hitler regime," a British military authority said.

Production Not Yet At Peak
Revealing that Britain has nearly 3000 planes of the first line, circles close to the air ministry said "our production has not begun to reach its peak, as Germany's output already has."

"Sir Kingsley Wood (air secretary) has stated that British production was quadrupled in the last year. Now we are even doubling the higher figure."

"Our fighters in actual combat have proved superior to the Reich's planes, while the German Messerschmitts have not been able to catch our bombers over the Reich."

The newest British fighting type, which will be placed in production shortly, tops a speed of 300 miles an hour on the straightaway. Its speed exceeds even that of the Spitfire type, which beats the Messerschmitt by at least 30 m.p.h. it was asserted.

For these reasons, officials of the Royal Air Force fear no German aerial "Blitzkrieg." "We are confident that we can meet anything Germany offers," they said.

Untidy Rooms; No Dates; For Westminster Co-eds

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Oct. 31.—It's either "be a neat and tidy housekeeper" or "no dating" for Westminster college co-eds.

A new point system dormitory ruling gives a demerit mark to co-eds having untidy desks, unmade beds, bathes under the bed and such "domestic crimes." Co-eds, over six-week periods, who receive the largest number of these demerit marks will be penalized by 48-hour campus limits, which means the girls can go to and from classes, but nothing more.

"Dormitory inspection" to be made by residence-directors in co-eds dormitories, will make their tours of girls' rooms at "unexpected moments." Co-eds who acquire six demerit marks receive immediate "house limits" for two days.

But, for the girls who keep their rooms in tip-top order, there is a reward. Senior and junior co-eds who rank highest, in tidiness will receive an extra date-night each week; sophomores an extra 10:30 permission night a week and freshmen an extra weekly 10 o'clock permission.

Girls who happen to be rooming with an "untidy roommate" are penalized along with the original offenders. The ruling will affect three women's dormitories and six cooperative lodges.

As for men, well they can throw all of their shoes under the beds if they want to. So far, no "men's tidiness law" has been laid down.

Gettysburg Address Not Written Hastily

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 31.—A famous story that has gained world-wide credence—that Abraham Lincoln wrote his immortal Gettysburg address on the back of an envelope while riding on a train to the battlefield—was termed a myth by Attorney John M. Henry, an amateur historian.

"It is all romantic legend," Henry, now manager of the Works Project Administration, explained in a speech before the Pittsburgh realtors.

Relating he has made an extensive study of the famous president's life Henry said:

"The legend that Lincoln wrote his masterpiece on a piece of brown paper is entirely romantic. 'It's an error to mislead the youth of the nation with the legend that this masterpiece sprang suddenly and full-blown from the brain of even a Lincoln."

Henry contended that it is impossible to believe that such perfect word selection and remarkable oratory was the result of hasty scribbling.

"There is historical evidence," the attorney went on, "to prove Lincoln worked his Gettysburg address over and over, polishing and re-polishing its beautiful phrasing."

Lincoln, he concluded, was anxious to encourage the north in a dark hour and seized the Gettysburg address to reaffirm the north's high purposes in the war.

NU-BLUE SUNOCO

The new miracle of gasoline chemistry

Made possible by a remarkable new process that was HAILED BY THE PRESS OF THE WORLD!

Hundreds of articles in magazines, newspapers and trade papers substantiate the fact that this process:

- is a great discovery.
- may antique present refining processes.
- will give motorists a new kind of gasoline, at no extra cost.

Made especially for high compression motors, this new gasoline gives EVERY car:—

- 1 A BONUS of high-test knockless power
- 2 A SURPLUS of sure-fire quick starting
- 3 A DIVIDEND of economical mileage

To make a fair test don't dilute Nu-Blue Sunoco with other gasoline. Let your tank run practically empty. Then put in Nu-Blue Sunoco. Compare it particularly with premium-priced gasolines. We'll put our case on your findings.

All you've ever wanted in a gasoline and AT REGULAR GAS PRICE

Mummers To March In Ellwood Streets At 8 O'Clock Tonight

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 31.—Red Flares will light the way for the Mummers March tonight which will form at Fountain avenue and Fourth street at 7:30 and at 8 o'clock it will wind its way through the city streets.

Immediately following the Mummers march, a city-wide Halloween dance will be held on Lawrence avenue between 5th and 6th street.

The borough will erect a special platform for the 10 piece popular dance band and loud speakers will carry the music through the block.

Enough cornmeal will be on hand to place the entire block in dance condition and young and old couples are urged to join in and enjoy the city wide endorsed Halloween celebration.

For those who do not wish to dance, there will be special novelty numbers displayed by the orchestra that will be entertaining to everyone.

Interesting Meeting Held Monday Night At Home Of Mrs. Elder Anderson

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 31.—A number of most interesting reviews of current fiction and non-fiction featured the October meeting of the College club on Monday evening when the members were graciously entertained by Mrs. Elder Anderson, of Lawrence avenue.

In answer to the roll call, members named a book they wished to read this winter. Mrs. Nelson Kennedy was the leader and she gave an account of "The Country Lawyer" by Bellamy Partridge, "Reaching for the Stars" by Nora Waln and given by Mrs. John H. Hough; and "Escape" by Edith Walton was outlined by Mrs. Dale Mason. A late edition by Marquand was the theme of Mrs. J. Ellis Bell's talk.

A pleasant social hour followed with the hostess being aided in serving a refreshing lunch by Miss Emily Pitzer, a special guest.

For the next meeting on Monday, November 27, the members will visit the International Art Exhibit in Pittsburgh under the direction of Mrs. H. S. Gold.

Legion Units Have Masquerade Party

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 31.—A colorful Halloween setting added enjoyment to the annual masquerade party held last evening by the J. C. Fulton, North Sewickley Post and auxiliary in the Sixth street legion hall, which proved to be a fine success.

The sixty merrymakers attending were masked and after the grand march attractive prizes were given for the best impersonations.

Games and dancing with the music being provided by a local orchestra provided diversion after which appropriate refreshments were served.

The social committee, Mrs. Mildred Brandon, Mrs. May Holliday, Mrs. T. C. Sleighter, Mrs. Gladys Neuman, Mrs. Elva McCandless and Mrs. Mildred Pike, were in charge of the successful arrangements.

Lutheran Board Meets At Church

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 31.—"Budgeting Our Time" was the discussion subject of the monthly meeting of the Lutheran school of the Trinity Lutheran church held on Monday evening in the church parlor.

Chester Caldwell was the leader with an open discussion following. Matters pertaining to the Sunday school were discussed at the meeting led by the superintendent, Robert Bushman, who was instructed to appoint the committee to arrange the Christmas entertainment on Sunday morning.

There was a good attendance of officers and teachers.

SPECIAL MEETING OF HAZEL DELL W. C. T. U.

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 31.—A special meeting of the Hazel Dell W. C. T. U. was held on Monday evening in the form of a brushy demonstration at the home of Mrs. Harry Kirkwood of Hazel avenue.

Twenty members and twenty-three guests attended and at the close of the evening an appetizing lunch was served by a committee of four, Mrs. Vincent LeFever, Mrs. Ferd Fehl, Mrs. Zena Stevenson and Mrs. Sue Sumner.

Girl Scouts Enjoy Hallowe'en Parties

Weekly Meetings Marked By Merry Celebrations With Large Attendance

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 31.—Twenty-two spooks gathered at Camp "Recky Lum" for the Bon-O-Lin-Hallowe'en party last night.

Half of the troop was dressed in boy costumes and the other half in girl's attire. During the grand march, costumes were judged and the awards given to Phyllis Adams, funniest dressed; Evelyn Felen and Delores Jessop, best dressed couple; and Averell Adams, most original. Peggy Adams won a prize for being the winner in the candy hunt.

The cabinet was decorated in a weird manner providing an appropriate atmosphere. Miss Jean Steele was in charge of the decorating committee.

Mrs. Oran Stewart and her committee provided entertainment. After much fun, Mrs. Edward Bohlen and her group of girls served grand refreshments. Twenty-two girls, three leaders and two guests attended. Harriet Danner, scribe.

TROOP ONE

A merry Hallowe'en party was held by Troop One in the basement of the Mahoning home on the New Castle road.

Prizes were won by Doris Schrock and Frances Kelly for the best dressed. Mrs. Joseph Bowater and Mrs. Charles Adams were guests and the former delighted the girls by reading the numbers they were thinking.

Doris Schrock told a thrilling ghost story after which bobbing apples and other Hallowe'en games were enjoyed. Cider, doughnuts and candy were served.

Next week the girls will visit the mahoning cave instead of having the regular meeting.

TROOP SIX

Troop Six met Monday night in Ewing Park. After inspection the time was devoted to patrol meeting. Mrs. Liebenor explained the rally to be held on Monday, November 13, in the Baptist church. Marjorie Nelson, scribe.

Rev. J. C. Fulton To Be Speaker Here

North Sewickley Presbyterian, Providence Baptist Churches To Unite For Meetings

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 31.—Beginning on Sunday evening, November 5, the Providence Baptist and North Sewickley Presbyterian churches will unite for their annual series of evangelistic services.

The first week of services will be held in the Presbyterian church with Rev. J. C. Fulton, of Plainfield, to be the guest evangelist. He will be aided in conducting the services by Mrs. Fulton, an accomplished pianist. The Fultons have conducted special services in this vicinity a number of times that have proved to be quite successful and popular.

The second week of services will be held in the Providence church with the speaker to be announced. Rev. R. E. Bell and Rev. J. R. Routledge are pastors of the two churches.

In preparation a joint prayer service will be held at the Presbyterian church on Thursday evening at 7:45 o'clock and the Presbyterian church will also hold a prayer service on Wednesday night.

MRS. CLAIR COURSON Is Hostess To Class

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 31.—Members of the Willing Workers class of the First Christian church gathered last evening at the home of Mrs. Clair Coursin, of Ellport, for a gala Hallowe'en party.

When unmasking time came, nice prizes were awarded to Mrs. Dora Milnes and Mrs. Esther Krebbs for the best costumes.

Games of an amusing variety occupied the hours amidst colorful decorations. In serving seasonal refreshments, the hostess was aided by Mrs. Etta McCurdy and Mrs. Florence Dobson.

YOUNG PEOPLE HAVE HAY RIDE

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 31.—A gay evening was enjoyed by members of the Young People's council of the Slippery Rock Presbyterian church last evening.

The affair, attended by 26 members, was in the form of a hayride after which the group returned to the church for an oyster supper.

Miss Dorothy Barnett was in charge of the entertainment and Miss Verda Myers, the refreshments.

Gradale Chapter Arranges Dinner

Past Officers, New Members, Brides To Be Honored At Annual Event

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 31.—When members of the Alpha Chapter Gradale Sorority gathered last evening at the home of Mrs. Jack Zeigler of Johnston Drive, they selected Tuesday, November 14, as the date of their annual past officers' dinner to be held at a Zellenople dining room.

In addition, the affair will honor new members and the five recent brides, Mrs. Amanda Kuben, Mrs. Alice Howells, Mrs. Louisa Menold, Mrs. Gladys McNay and Mrs. Grace Zeigler.

Arrangements for the affair are in charge of Mrs. Maude Ertel and Mrs. Rose McKim. Twenty-four members and one guest, Miss Alda Newton participated.

Miss Mildred Rhea, primus, announced the following committees for the new year:

Spiritual, Mary Worrell, Peg Fanchaliga, Eleanor Wilson, Mental, Amanda Kuben, Maude Ertel, Ethel King, Physical, Florence Dougherty, Grace Zeigler, Gertrude Cragle, Social, Rhea McEthan, June McBride, Bernice Christie.

Refreshments, Marilyn Neff, Kay Menold, Charlotte Rodgers, Blanche Means, Margaretta Hall.

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 31.—Ambridge high school up until Friday had two unbeaten high school football teams, but the Junior high team joined the conquered class when the Ellwood Junior High Wolverines topped them 6 to 0 at the local field yesterday afternoon.

Keeper, mainstay for Harold Burry's local eleven, provided the victory margin for Ellwood when he intercepted an Ambridge lateral for their 26 and run down the field for six points. Wallace's line plunge for the extra point wasn't successful.

Ellwood will end the season next Friday afternoon at Aliquippa with a record to date of three wins, one

Schools Of State Will Vote On New Athletic Age Limit

Recommendation Made By PIAA Board Of Control Reducing Age Limit 20 To 19

Also Would Change Semester Ruling, Would Take Affect Next September

By TOM R. BRISLIN
International News Service
HARRISBURG, Oct. 31—Two important changes in the Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association's constitution—one dropping the eligibility age limit for high school sports competition from 20 to 19 years—were approved today by the PIAA board of control.

The amendments must be submitted to the nearly 900 member schools of the PIAA for further action.

Edmund C. Wicht, executive secretary of the PIAA, said that in addition the board of control voted to restore the eight-semester ruling for participation in interscholastic sports.

Two Changes
The amendments, as approved by the board of control, in effect do this:

1. Any student, boy or girl, reaching the age of 19 before the date set for the start of any sports season will be henceforth declared ineligible.

(A student reaching the age of 19 midway in any designated sports season will be allowed to complete that season, however, Wicht explained.)

2. The eight semester ruling would revert to one in force before the present six-semester limit was invoked. At present, a high school student may take part for six semesters after the ninth grade.

Both amendments were viewed by athletic coaches of high schools all over the state as "drastic." Many coaches felt that they would lose considerable material through the age-rule change and the adoption of the eight-semester eligibility amendment.

Wicht explained that the board saw the necessity for changing the semester ruling to eliminate the possibility of an athlete being held in ninth grade to acquire an extra year of age and then play for six semesters.

Dates Specified
The PIAA secretary pointed out that under the new proposal a student could not take part beyond eight semesters of attendance above the eighth grade, whether he had previously played on a team or not.

The board of control specified the following dates by which the 19-year-age limit would be invoked:
September 1—Football, cross-country, soccer, girls' hockey.
November 15—Basketball, ice hockey, swimming, wrestling, boxing, volleyball, and gymnastics.
April 1—Tennis, baseball, lacrosse, and track.

The amendments will be voted upon at 12 district meetings before the end of the year. Board members said the amendments were designed in keeping with a movement throughout the United States to reduce age limits of high school athletes.

'Light-Heavy' Title At Stake

Some Believe Bartle Will Knock Out Rubin Next Monday

The light heavyweight championship of the Lawrence County amateurs will be at stake when Mickey Rubin of this city and Benny Bartle of Ellwood City clash, Monday night in the Arena.

Rubin suffered a surprising upset when Bartle, a substitute, crawled into the arena ring a few weeks ago and smacked him around, then received the decision.

Mickey's cockiness suffered no little and having been vanquished by another Lawrence Countyman he pleaded for another opportunity to show he is the "cock of the fistic walk" hereabouts and get it.

Some believe Bartle will knock Rubin out next time. On the other hand the Rubin supporters believe Mickey will do an "about face" and once more have his hand raised in victory.

Hard Bout To Judge
The Billy Murray of Cecil, vs. Frankie Moran of New Castle, battle is expected to be as close those paced to judge the affair have turned a deaf ear to entreaties.

Murray beat Frankie to the punch in the first part of their scrap. In the last portion of their blow-for-blow affair Moran was forcing Murray to break ground. This looks like the fastest fight of the night.

Another bout that should be tops will be the return engagement between Sammy Secrete and Ted Delarado. Secrete beat Johnny Cosmo here. Delarado kayoed Johnny Geidle and lost a decision to Steve Kowalko here.

Oscar Wright the Meerschaum Kid, a slugger from the first to the last bell will tangle with Andy Wertz who beat Chuck Arkett. Oscar beat George Simms and Armand Covelli in the Arena ring.

There will be eight fights and in most of them divisional or Golden glove champions will parade their fists. Already the fans have started a trek toward the Jefferson A. C. for choice pastebards.

Irish And Army Game Highlights Coming Week-End

Both Notre Dame And Army Will Risk Undefeated And Untied Records To Date

CORNELL WILL PLAY COLUMBIA

By LAWTON CARVER
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Oct. 31—A perfect football season, the cherished dream of every coach even though none will admit it publicly, is to be denied all save a maximum of four or five major teams during the current campaign. It is barely possible that all will suffer a defeat or tie before the finish is reached, inasmuch as only eight top flight eleven have escaped so far, and moreover, the road gets rockier all the time from here on out. As early as the coming week end some of the favored few tangle with opponents who could and may score upsets. Needless to mention anything can happen this wild season, the likes of which the oldest goal post teardrainer can scarcely remember.

Records At Stake
With the unbeaten and untied teams named first, here are the major gammas in which perfect records will be placed at stake this week:

Notre Dame vs. Army at New York.
Cornell vs. Columbia at Ithaca.
Tennessee vs. Louisiana State, at Baton Rouge.

Texas A. and M. vs. Arkansas at Fayetteville, Ark.
Duke vs. Marquette at Pittsburgh (Friday).

Michigan vs. Illinois at Champaign, Ill.
Kentucky vs. Alabama at Birmingham.

Oregon State vs. Southern California at Portland.
Of these, Notre Dame, Tennessee, Kentucky and Oregon State all face definite threats, and the rest can't be too sure of picnics. In most cases the under dogs have pointed for the favorites in these games and very often that equalizes what appears to be a one-sided contest.

Three Undefeated
And that's football for you, especially in the year 1939. Significant is the fact that of a dozen teams selected in pre-season forecasts as potential national leaders just three still have unsullied records—Tennessee, Notre Dame and Michigan. Any one or all of them may depart sorrowfully from the heights at a moment's notice.

In addition to other factors involved, Saturday's games also will carry with them the hopes of some of the eleven for a place in the various post-season bowl tussles. Oregon State and Southern California will come pretty close to settling identity of the Pacific coast conference host team, for one thing. Tennessee reportedly has the inside track to represent the sector this side of the Rockies, but some of the others also are in the running.

The week-end schedule also includes these major inter-sectional contests: Auburn-Boston College, Chicago-Virginia, Detroit-Villanova, Fordham-Rice, Michigan State-Syracuse.

Local tid-bits—Robert "Flash" Engle, ex-New Castle high backfield speedster, is one of the key men in the ball totting department of Lincoln University, near Philadelphia. The local colored running wizard has electrified the stands all season with sensational dashes.

Phil Tammara, ex-Ellwood City high grid star, who was lost to Carnegie Tech at the start of the season due to an appendicitis operation, is back in action. . . . Johnny Cabas ripped the Heidelberg line to pieces last Saturday, scoring three touchdowns as Mt. Union won an easy triumph. . . . Our Yogi power clicked last week end. We came up with 46 winners out of 53 games, exclusive of four ties.

Layden greatest coach—Elmer Layden is the greatest collegiate mentor in the nation today, as far as this corner is concerned. The principal reason for Layden's success at Notre Dame is that he leaves no stone unturned. In Layden's book there isn't such a thing as a minute detail in football.

I doubt very much if there is a coach who stresses kicking as much as the former member of the Four Horsemen. Playing a string of top-notchers year in and year out Layden realizes the scores are bound to come. . . . Thus, a success. . . . or a field goal between you.

Notre Dame's success because of superior plus outstanding foot. . . . course. Five victories in a row of a mere 15 points. . . . den admits free that it takes time, lots of it, to master the art of booting the pig pelt. Other men tors stress kicking, but none like Layden.

The physical condition of a glider, blocking, tackling and alertness are fine points in Layden's way of teaching football. If there's a break in a game the Irish usually get the best of it. Why? Because Notre Dame players keep their eyes on the ball and are always on the alert. I question very much if luck is the appropriate term for this.

On top of this Layden injects that ever important bug—psychology—into the noggin of his players. He left little Duquesne back in December, 1933, to take over the reigns of his alma mater. To date his record stands at 38 victories, nine losses and three deadlocks. That's par when you look at Notre Dame's schedule year in and year out. The menu is the toughest in the land.

No Action Taken By Local Council On Massillon Game

There is a rumor going the rounds in New Castle that the local High School will drop the Massillon team for the 1940 season of football. According to Principal Frank L. Orth at Senior High today, there has not been any definite action taken by Athletic Council.

The next meeting of the Board of Education will be on November 14, at which time a final decision will be made. Orth said that the Athletic Council will not be asked to sever ties with Massillon until after the season is over.

Two Title Games Here This Week

With two championships on the block, this week's local gridiron parade is extremely appealing.

The initial titular event is billed for Taggart Stadium where George Washington and Ben Franklin settle the city junior high supremacy. The tiff is billed for Thursday afternoon with the kickoff ceremonies starting at 3:30 o'clock.

Friday afternoon, East New Castle draws the spotlight with Shengango township and Bessemer classing for the Lawrence County Class B coronet. Both teams have come up with powerful combinations, assuring the spectators of one of those thrill-a-second battles.

Aside from the championship set-off, Mahoning county vs. Sharpville for a battle with the junior high eleven of that city, Thursday afternoon, Ellwood City, easily one of the topnotch scholastic eleven in the district, takes on New Brighton at Reeves field, Thursday night.

New Castle's Hurricane hopes to rebound, following its tussle with Massillon, when it meets Monessen, Friday evening at Monessen. Union township clashes with Mars high school, Friday afternoon, away from home soil.

Westminster returns to its battleground Saturday, entertaining Edinboro.

Tomorrow is the day we have been waiting for so impatiently. It's a great season and we hope and pray that the day will pass without any accidents. Maybe the other fellow will be careful—but you cannot be too careful to yourself. Every year someone shoots themselves, if you will be the winner tomorrow night at 5 o'clock. No hunting of any kind until 9 a. m. tomorrow. Daily shooting hours from then on are 7 a. m. to 5 p. m. Traps may not be set before 7 a. m. the first day for trapping in open counties. Raccoons may be hunted at night. Duck hunters will not begin to hunt until 9 o'clock tomorrow morning and then from 7 a. m. to 4 p. m. federal regulations.

Upland Game Daily Bag Limits
Small game possession limit three days' bag, after third day.
Woodchuck season closed.
Ruffed grouse, 2 per day, 10 per season.

Quail, bobwhite, 5 per day, 15 per season.
Hungarian partridges, closed in Lawrence county.
Ringneck pheasants, males only, 2 per day, 12 per season.
Rabbits, cottontails, 4 per day, 20 per season.

Squirrels, combined, 6 per day, 20 per season.
Hunters, male and female, closed all counties.

Migratory Game
Possession limit for ducks, geese and woodcock is two days' bag. All other species one day's bag. Waterfowl and coots 7 a. m. till 4 p. m. after species 7 a. m. to sunset.

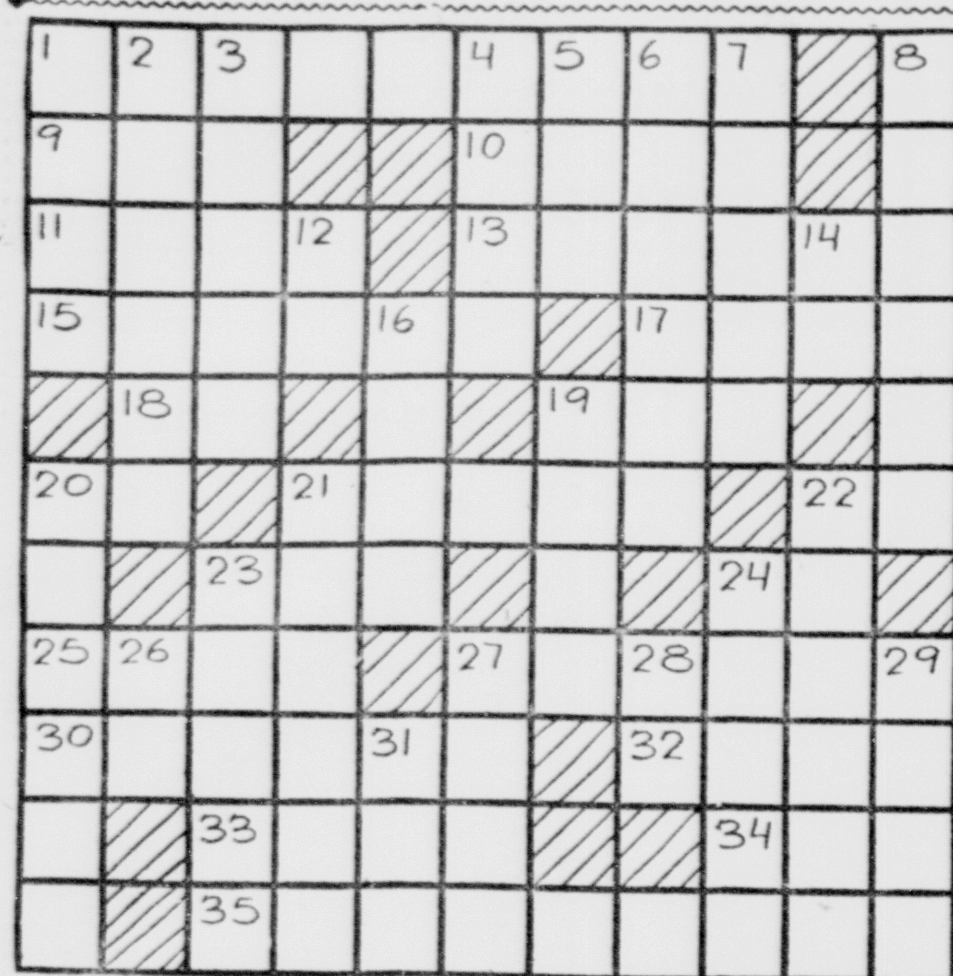

Red (including sora), 15 per day.
Gallinules, except coots, 15 per day.
Woodcock, 4 per day.
Snipe (Wilson or Jack), 15 per day.
Coots (mudhens), 25 per day.

Wild ducks, 10 per day in aggregate not more than three of any one kind. Redhead, bufflehead and Ruddy ducks and geese of any one kind or six in aggregate for possession limit. Federal duck stamp required by persons 16 years and over, validated by signature on the stamp. Purchased at post offices. This stamp is not required for wild woodcock, snipe, rails and gallinules.

BEGINNERS LUCK
You will remember last week I mentioned about anyone wanting to trade their kind of recreation for ours? Well I converted my own brother into the brave and bold hunters fraternity. Last Wednesday I cased him into buying a hunting license and duck stamp. From then on it was my party. A new member, no hunting togs, guns, etc. So I gathered in a few odds and ends from the cellar and attic. Soon I had him equipped with a 16 gauge pump gun and everything it takes to make one look like a mighty hunter. Matter of fact he was dressed better than I was. But I didn't mind because I had someone to hunt with. We left the city about 1:30 p. m. for the Harbor Bridge district. By the time we arrived at the river where we were to hunt the rain was pouring down in buckets full. I asked the tenderfoot how he liked it. To my surprise he replied "well". No wonder he liked it, he was dressed up fit for a squall and I wasn't even fit to be outside. But there we were sitting in the rain and enjoying every minute of it, the same as you would be enjoying yourself in your favorite easy chair. (Well almost.) About five minutes later I noticed a small "raft" coming in from the south. I cautioned Art to lay low and still. When I gave the signal shoot where the ducks are going and no where they are. So the ducks had arrived within range, and I didn't know whether they had noticed these two unfamiliar forms (sitting there so motionless) or not and I gave forth a signal that was a signal, and we both starting shooting. I cautioned Art to lay low and still. When I gave the signal shoot where the ducks are going and no where they are. Art and I waited for the ducks to appear. Well, the weather was so bad that even the ducks refused to be seen in it. A flock of geese passed high overhead and sounded like a traffic jam at a football game with all their honkers going. Now the snow let up a bit, you could almost see across the pond. A few more ducks risked the breeze, and those mighty (Nuts I'd call them) stopped in our faces as if it was daring us to stay. The wind was howling and traveling at least 50 miles per hour. C-O-L-D, oh just a little bit. My gloves soaked, the wind trying to dry them off and they'd start to get stiff. (Must of been the starch in them). What was a little snow for some duck hunters. Our feet felt as though the blood had stopped its flow from the hips down. Well, the weather was so bad that even the ducks refused to be seen in it. Our feet felt as though the blood had stopped its flow from the hips down. Well, the weather was so bad that even the ducks refused to be seen in it. A flock of geese passed high overhead and sounded like a traffic jam at a football game with all their honkers going. Now the snow let up a bit, you could almost see across the pond. A few more ducks risked the breeze, and those mighty (Nuts I'd call them) stopped in our faces as if it was daring us to stay. The wind was howling and traveling at least 50 miles per hour. C-O-L-D, oh just a little bit. My gloves soaked, the wind trying to dry them off and they'd start to get stiff. (Must of been the starch in them). What was a little snow for some duck hunters. BLONDIE

DADDY, THERE'S A TIGER WALKING UP AND DOWN MY CEILING.

THAT'S JUST THE MOONLIGHT AND SHADOWS OF THE TREES.

JUST THE SAME, I'M COMING IN AND SLEEP WITH YOU.

IF YOU SLEEP IN HERE, YOU'VE GOTTA BE QUIET...NO WIGGLING, UNDERSTAND?

OKAY, POP.

JOE PALOOKA

I HOPE YOUSE WILL BE VERY HAPPY, MISS DUFFEE. KNOBBY'S THE GRANDIST FELLA IN THE WORLD.

OH, THANK YOU, JOE. I'M SURE I WILL.

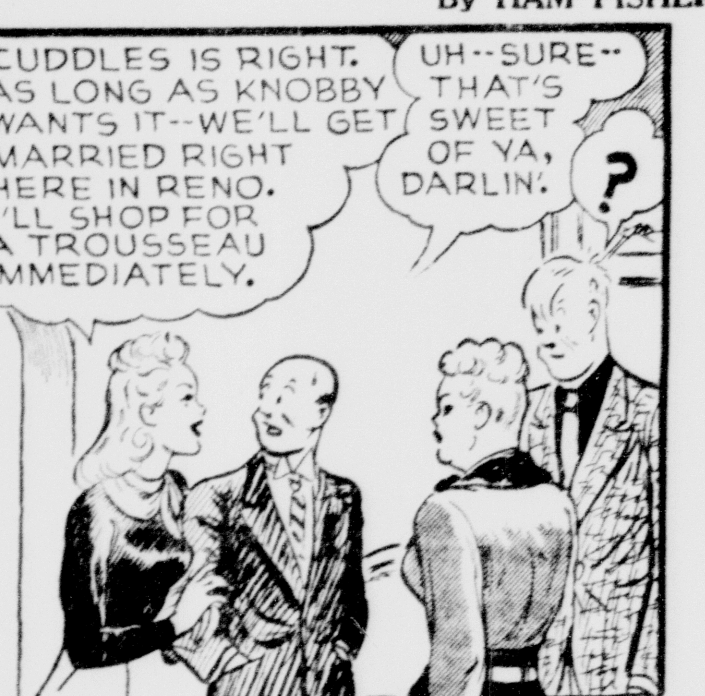

WHY DON'T YOU KIDDIES GET MARRIED RIGHT HERE? NOW THAT WOULD BE DUCKY.

WHY I THINK SO. I'M PERFECTLY AGREEABLE. I KNOW YOU'D LIKE TO...

NOW DEAREST—I DON'T CARE IF YOU WANT TO CHANGE YOUR MIND. I'LL ALWAYS HAVE THE PRIVILEGE TO CHANGE YOUR MIND.

DELL BELIEVES A GIRL SHOULD ALWAYS LET THE MAN DECIDE WHEN PEOPLE ARE MARRIED.

CUDDLES IS RIGHT. AS LONG AS KNOBBY WANTS IT—WE'LL GET MARRIED RIGHT HERE IN RENO. I'LL SHOP FOR A TROUSSEAU IMMEDIATELY.

UH—SURE—THAT'S SWEET OF YA, DARLIN'.

Shock Victim's Condition Fair

It was reported today at the Jameson Memorial hospital that the condition of John K. Newton, of R. F. D. No. 2, Ellwood City, who was severely shocked when the pipe from a well which was being drawn on the Roth farm on the Frew Mill road yesterday struck an electric wire, had a fair night and that his condition was regarded as fair.

Newton's brother, Claude, aged 15, was fatally shocked in the accident.

Male

Can you set aside $1.59 to $1.65 per week for a $100 LOAN

That's actually all you need to pay off in full a $100 cash loan including all charges on a 18 month plan, setting aside just $1.65 a week. And we take no wage assignment.

● $1.59 a week on the average is all you need to set aside for every $100 borrowed on Personal's new "Special" loan plan of only 2 1/2% per month on the first $100 and 2% per month on balances over $100. This plan is for persons with a steady income or salary sufficient to meet payments promptly and a good credit record.

● For persons without established credit and employment ratings, or who wish to carry a loan larger than $100 to 12% of annual salary or income. Personal offers its "Regular" loan at 3% monthly on unpaid balances of 100 and less and 2% monthly on unpaid balances over $100. Under this plan, setting aside just $1.65 a week, will repay everything on a $100 loan in 18 months. Loans from $20 to $300.

No Prospect For Early Peace Seen In Sino-Jap Fuss

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—No prospect for an early peace in the undeclared war being waged upon China by Japan exists today, because the Japanese military caste refuses to repudiate its present policies, according to Dr. Hu Shih, Chinese ambassador to the United States.

Speaking, he emphasized, merely as an individual, Dr. Shih told the China Society of America that his countrymen would continue fighting until they achieved a peace guaranteeing them an independent, unified and strong national state, repudiation of all territorial and economic gains the Japanese acquired by force and restoration of the "open door policy." The Japanese have lost 1,000,000 men and have exhausted their gold reserves, the ambassador asserted.

Market Selling Is Heavy Today

After Early Spurt In Aviation Market Runs Into Fairly Heavy Selling

By LESLIE GOULD
International News Service
Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—The stock market ran into fairly heavy selling today, after an early spurt in aviation shares. Gains were wiped out, and losses running to two points were quickly substituted.

Douglas Aircraft, which had been up three points in the first hour, had its gain completely erased, while other air shares had advances running to more than a point converted into fractional losses.

Outside markets reacted with stocks. Wheat changed small gains into equal losses, and similar price changes were noted in cotton and most of the minor staples.

Speculative bonds also reversed an early upward trend.

DuPont in the chemicals and U. S. Gypsum in the building group were among the stocks to drop two points before meeting support.

Bethlehem and U. S. Steel each tumbled more than a point, after chalking up minor gains in early trading. Other steels slipped fractions.

Chrysler dropped close to two points and General Motors about half as much.

Many other leaders were down a point or more, including Union Carbide, Johns-Manville and U. S. Rubber.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Kentucky Derby purse has been hiked to $75,000 added, instead of $50,000 added, as heretofore, according to announcement made today by Matt J. Winn, president of the American Turf association, Louisville.

The classic, first staged in 1875, was for $2,850 added and was increased until 1922, when it soared to $50,000.

Eddie Brink of Scranton was decorated by Kenny LaSalle of Los Angeles, both 145, in 10 rounds last night in Richmond. Tony Martin, Minneapolis, defeated Billy White, Baltimore, in 10 chapters in Newark and Maxie Shapiro, New York, beat Yasho Nakamura, Hawaii, in eight rounds in New York. Kid Zale of Chicago and Al Wardlaw of Youngstown, box 10 rounds tonight in Youngstown.

Illinois State Athletic commission has barred Harry Thomas, Tony Calen, Max Schmeling, Nate Lewis and Joe Jacobs, from Illinois pending a complete hearing of "fixed fight" charges made by Thomas. The ruling was announced after the commissioners had discussed allegations of Thomas, a former heavyweight fighter, that he and Galento "had been decided weeks before the fighters entered the ring." Both Jacobs and Lewis scooped at Thomas' charges.

NOT SIX YEAR SCHOOL

Ever since the New Castle-Massillon game last Friday night there has been arguments in many parts of the city over the age limit of the Massillon players and also the fact that someone thinks it is a six year school. This is not true, according to Principal Frank L. Orth of Senior high, who said this morning that the age limit at Massillon is the same as here, 20 years. It is a four-year high school, not a six-year school.

SEVENTH WARD NEWS

Rev. Schnebly
Resigns Post
At Church Here

One Of City's Veteran Ministers; At Mahoningtown Church 16 Years

WILL BEGIN NEW DUTIES NOV. 19

Rev. D. C. Schnebly, for the past 16 years pastor of the Mahoningtown Presbyterian church, today sent his resignation to the official board of the church, to become effective on November 12.

Rev. Schnebly and family will leave New Castle the middle of November to take up new duties at the Colver, Pa., Presbyterian church. Colver is located in Cambria county near Ebensburg and about 25 miles east of Indiana, Pa.

Immediately following the regular church service next Sunday, a congregational meeting will be held for the purpose of acting on Rev. Schnebly's resignation.

Rev. Schnebly is one of the city's veteran ministers, being about third in line for holding the longest pastorate here. During his pastorate, Rev. Schnebly has been quite active both in his church and in civic affairs. He has also been an active member of the New Castle Ministerial Association.

Vacancy at the Colver church was created by the resignation of Rev. Melin last June. According to Rev. Schnebly, Rev. Melin has retired and is now living in Florida.

Rev. and Mrs. Schnebly plan to go to Colver this week to make plans to move their household furnishings to the new parsonage. They will return in time for Rev. Schnebly to conduct the regular services next Sunday at the Mahoningtown church.

Rev. Schnebly will begin his new duties on Sunday, November 19.

Field Meet For Boy Scouts In City Next Week

Meet Was Postponed From Last Saturday Due To Muddy Ground

Postponed field meet for Boy Scouts in the New Castle District will be held Saturday, November 4, at the George Washington Junior high school athletic field.

This meet was postponed from last Saturday due to the muddy field being too muddy to perform the various tests and carry out the complete program.

Group From Ward
At Anniversary

All Churches In Ward Are Represented At Moravia Church Event

The three Seventh Ward Protestant churches were well represented on October 29, at the 50th anniversary celebration of the Moravia Presbyterian church.

The late Rev. J. C. Pickens was the first minister at the Moravia church, and his sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Dungan of Newell avenue, were in attendance at the anniversary.

Others present from the ward included: Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gibson, Mrs. H. E. Alexander and daughter, Betty, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Fowler, Mrs. Myrtle Miller, Mrs. Ralph Taylor, Maxine Taylor, Mrs. Harry Brown and Mrs. Alice Taylor.

JUNIOR C. E. GROUP
HALLOWE'EN PARTY

Members of the Junior Christian Endeavor of the Mahoningtown Presbyterian church, held a Hallowe'en party in the church Monday evening, with 30 taking part in the event.

The group came masked, and a portion of the time was spent in guessing who each person was. Mrs. Clarence Allen and Mrs. D. C. Schnebly, supervisors of the Junior C. E. were in charge of the party, and they were aided by Mrs. R. L. Drumheller.

Games of various types were enjoyed during the hours, and a delicious Halloween luncheon was served by Mrs. Allen, Mrs. Schnebly and Mrs. Drumheller.

NEWS BRIEFS IN WARD DISTRICT

Ward hunters are all ready to get an early start on Wednesday morning, first day of the hunting season. How many hunters will get the limit the first day is not known, but it is sure and certain that many rabbits, will lose their lives as the army makes its annual invasion in the woods in the district.

Several persons have reported seeing skunks near their homes in the ward during the past few days. Hunters could well declare an open season on these animals and do a good turn to the community.

Another section of the new electrical sub-station on North Cedar street, has been completed and lighted by huge electric lamps. These new lamps along with those lighted a short time ago makes the entire district bright with light at night.

Yellow school buses from many schools in the surrounding districts went through the ward Monday afternoon, filled with excited youngsters enroute to hear the famed United States Marine Band play.

CONFERENCE AT CHURCH NEXT WEEK

All Saints' Day,
All Souls' Day, To Be Solemnly Marked

Services Wednesday And Thursday Mornings In Trinity Episcopal Church

Wednesday is All Saints' Day, sometimes called All Hallows, from which comes the word Halloween or the Eve of All Hallows. Continuing the practice of centuries, this is one of the great days observed in all Episcopal churches and missions. It commemorates the Christian martyrs beginning with those of the Roman Empire and continuing to those in 1939.

In Trinity church, at the corner of North Mill and East Falls streets, there will be the Holy Communion at 7 a. m., giving an opportunity to workers to keep the day and again at 9:30 a. m. At this later hour the local Order of the Daughters of the King expects to attend in a body, making an offering for the advance work conducted by the National Order of the Daughters of the King, and receiving the sacrament together. The service is for all.

Thursday is All Souls' Day, when those who have not met the martyr's death are remembered in accordance with ancient usage. Then all who have died, particularly all during the past year, will be thought of. Many like to hallow the memory of their loved ones at this time. Especially is it customary for the families of those who have died during the past year to be in church. The service on Thursday is at 9:30 a. m. At this hour, the Church expects to make a corporate communion.

Father-Mother
Daughter Found
Dead From Fumes

(International News Service) POTTSTOWN, Pa., Oct. 31.—Clinton Mitchell, 60, proprietor of a roadstand on the Pottstown-West Chester pike, his wife, Bessie, 48, and their daughter, Sophie, 12, were found asphyxiated in their home at Eagle, eight miles south of Pottstown, Monday.

A son, Benjamin, 25, was seriously affected by the fumes, which authorities said spread through the small combination bungalow-roadstand from a defective natural gas heating system recently installed in the structure.

The tragedy was discovered by a neighbor, Mrs. Ella Waggoner, who went to Mitchell's establishment to ascertain why Sophie had not called to go to school with her daughter.

NEW YORK FAIR
COMES TO CLOSE

(International News Service) NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Hilarity reigned supreme today as the turnstiles at the New York world's fair clicked for the last day before being closed until next year.

Extra police detectives and watchmen were on guard against vandalism by souvenir hunters. The total paid admission was expected to approach the 26,000,000 mark before the gates are finally closed until May 25, 1940.

NEW HEAD FOR OLD FOLKS' HOME NAMED

ZELIENOPLE, Oct. 31.—The Rev. William Pfeiffer, pastor of the First Lutheran church at Leechburg, has accepted a call to take charge of the Old People's Lutheran Home here. Capture Fugitive At Wife's Home (International News Service) PITTSBURGH, Oct. 31.—A fugitive's desire to see his wife and children today cost the man his freedom.

Acting on a tip, county detectives and city police captured Lawrence Scango, 35, last night as he visited his wife's home. Scango escaped from the county workhouse last May 14 by slugging Guard John Brophy, 55.

He told police today that he had hitch-hiked to Mexico where he worked as a farmer for 60 cents a day. Homesick, he hitch-hiked the 2,000 miles back again, and was rewarded with a return trip to the workhouse.

MORE MENTAL PATIENTS
PAROLED UNDER MODERN TREATMENT PRACTICE

HARRISBURG, Oct. 31.—The increasing parole rate in Pennsylvania's hospitals for mental patients is cited by department welfare officials as an indication of the success of modern methods of treatment and care of mental patients as compared with methods, general used half a century ago.

At present approximately 11 percent of the 23,447 persons listed under care in the state's mental hospitals are on parole. This means that these patients are no longer a direct charge to the taxpayer of the state but are sufficient restored to be returned to the home communities. Fifteen years ago only 4.5 percent of the mental hospital population was paroled.

Sounds Warning On South American Trade

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—As government agencies launched programs to aid American business to expand trade with South America, the Chamber of Commerce of the United States sounded a warning against "too-great expectations" in that direction.

The foreign commerce committee of the chamber cautioned American business and industry that the European war will cause certain "dislocations" in America's foreign trade, particularly with regard to Latin-America.

Barriers Listed
Recognizing the shutting off of German export and import trade, which has showed marked increases in the last five years, the committee listed these barriers to expansion of the United States trade with its southern neighbors:

1. Financial situations which have built up large amounts of "blocked" funds, particularly in inflexible German marks, which "may increase the difficulties of some countries in meeting payments for their imports."

2. Increased war risk insurance on ocean shipping, imposing additional costs.

3. Establishment of governmental control of financing and credit extension in Latin-America, further complicating ready exchange.

The Department of Commerce drew up charts for the guidance of American manufacturers showing the extent of German manufactured exports to South American countries, but the chamber voiced this caution:

"It is to be kept in mind that the financial situations in some of the South American countries has in the past resulted in the building up of great quantities of blocked funds. Also, the shutting off of South American exports in certain European states may increase the difficulties of some countries in meeting payments for their imports and returns on direct investments."

European Armies May Seek Horses And Mules From American Farms

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—Europe's war becomes a war of movement, America's farms and ranches may be secured again for war-horses and pack-mules.

But army buyers from abroad will find only half as many horses to choose from as they found in 1915-1918. And most of these are peace-time work animals.

"The American Humane Society hopes to shut off even that supply," it has asked President Roosevelt "in the name of humanity," to include animals in the list of supplies that may not be supplied to belligerents.

Buyers for European armies swarmed into American horse and mule markets and into our farming and ranching districts during the World War. They paid high prices for horses and mules to replace those which had been shot, gassed or worn out on the battlefield and on shell-torn roads.

Quickening Demand

Already there are signs of a quickening export demand. A shipment of 1,000 mules, destined for service in Turkey's expanding army, recently left New Orleans.

Another shipment for Turkey is scheduled for next month from a Texas point and there are reports of still more buying in the Southwest. Buyers for nearly all European powers have been drawing heavily on Ireland's horse supply, and soon may turn to American sources.

If the Europeans should dig in for stabilized fighting, as they did in trenches on the western front after the early phases of the World War, animal casualties would be comparatively light.

But if the conflict develops into a war movement, American cavalrymen believe the mounted arm would play an important, perhaps decisive role and eventually would need heavy replacements.

European horse buyers coming to the United States today would find only 10,800,000 horses and 4,382,000 mules on farms and ranches as against 21,431,000 horses in 1915 and 4,239,000 mules in 1918.

Warning For Truck Drivers

State Motor Police To Enforce Law On Distance Between Trucks

HARRISBURG, Sept. 25.—The state motor police today were ordered to tighten up on trucks following each other closely on the open highways.

As a means of cutting down accidents, Colonel Lynn G. Adams, commissioner, pointed to a provision in the motor code for a $10 fine or five days' imprisonment for truck drivers following another truck less than 500 feet away.

He added, however, that does not prevent one truck from overtaking and passing another. It does not apply in business or residential districts, either, he said. It excludes military convoys.

The department of revenue reported 2,658 vehicles were forced off the roadways in 1938 and were involved in motor accidents. Thirty-four resulted in fatalities.

Child Ends Fourth Year Of Her Sleep

ERIE, Pa., Sept. 25.—Six-year-old Maxine Yarrington, the "sleeping beauty" of St. Francis hospital, has ended her fourth year in the end bed in the long row in the children's ward.

In four years, Maxine never has seen one of the scores of little children who have entered the ward ill and feverish, and left it healthy and happy.

Maxine is asleep, a victim of encephalitis lethargica (sleeping sickness).

Only 2 years old when stricken the child—although she tosses fitfully sometimes—never has awakened since her frantic parents brought her to the hospital from their home at nearby Fairview on September 24, 1935.

After four years, her condition is practically unchanged. Physicians long ago gave up hope for her recovery.

650 OHIO COLLEGE STUDENTS PLAN FLYING LESSONS

COLUMBUS, O.—About 650 Ohio college students will learn to fly this fall and winter at the expense of the federal government.

Under provisions of the Civilian Pilot Training Act passed by the last congress, the government bears the entire cost of flight instruction. The cost per student was expected to approximate between $270 and $290.

The flying course will be divided into two parts. The first is a ground school course of 72 hours which will be given on the campus of the participating university. The second is a minimum of 35 hours and up to a maximum of 50 hours of flight instruction.

Each student selected for training will be required to pay the university a laboratory fee. This sum covers the cost of a medical examination and of required insurance. A student must be between 18 and 25 in good health to be eligible for ground and flight instruction.

CAMELS—LONG-BURNING COSTLIER TOBACCOS

The Human Side Of The News

(By EDWIN C. HILL)

Copyright 1939 King Features Syndicate, Inc.

So far as history is enlightening, the first great herb doctor was Discordes, a surgeon in the armies of Nero. His system gave him enduring fame and dominated medicine throughout the world until the seventeenth century.

Nobody knows much about who the Cherokee Indians were or what they were doing in Nero's day. It is a safe assumption that they weren't clubby with the Romans. But here today they bring on down from the mist of the centuries a herbal system not unlike that of Discordes. Up in the Bronx their Chief Thundercloud is arrested for maintaining a herb "pitch."

Many Indian tribes have an elaborate herb lore. Where did they get it? In the big town our skyscrapers, our automobiles, all our swift conformity and change give us what may be a false sense of modernity, of severance with the past. In some dark, cold water walk-up in the shadow of these same skyscrapers of blatant modernity you can find an Ohi man, and, if you will, you may saturate yourself with voodoo magic and conjure the roar of street traffic into the beat of jungle drums.

If you think your girl has been two-timing you, you, may, if the week's pay-check will stand the strain, make a deal with the Ohi man for a magic feather. In the jungle you would participate in the ritual by which the feathers were plucked from a live blackbird. They would be tossed into a stream, under a beneficent aspect of the jungle moon. The one specially enchanted feather would float upstream. That would be your charm.

The Harlem Ohi man works with a trough in the kitchen sink, rather than a savannah-hung tide river and a gibbous moon, but the enchantment is the same. You pay out a greenback instead of a goat or an iguana, get your magic feather and lightly brush your girl on the left shoulder with it. She never gives you the run-around again—if you believe the Ohi man.

Chief Thundercloud and the Ohi man setting up a "pitch" in New York are reminders that we are, indeed, "the sum of all our yesterday's." The latest "white book" of Europe wouldn't tell half so much about the bedeviled continent and the cause of its 32nd war as would a complete dossier on its age-old heritage of exacerbated hatreds, old feudal and dynastic rivalries, infinitely varied cultures and conditioning, its legacy of tarnished glories, moonshine, poetry, tattered romance, warring philosophies and forever shattered and forever renewed faiths, heresies and conformities.

Cervantes debunked it elegantly in "Don Quixote," but it is forever the same. When Voltaire tossed off his aphorism about "the more change, the more of the same thing," he might have added that it is easy to bamboozle homo sapiens and the devil's own job to debamboozle him.

No mere league of nations could get a troupe of that kind of genii back into the vase. Nor could they be herded into any word corral like "democracy" or "absolutism." John Massfield can list poetically the spices and the pig-iron of its ancient and continuing commerce, but even if the immortal Homer were Europe's super-cargo today, he could make no neat capitulation of this hoary human heritage, nor could he set one item off sharply against another. They flux and fuse and ferment and sometimes boil over.

Should we jettison the past? Much of it, no doubt. But suppose that policeman who arrested Thundercloud for herb-doctoring had been troubled with hay fever? If he had been to an up-and-coming doctor he would have been treated with ephedrin, brought over from China by our doctors about 15 years ago. It has been of great value in the treatment of hay fever and asthma, and is a standard prescription for these ailments.

If the policeman didn't sneeze

when he was making the arrest, he should thank the ancestors of Thundercloud who, with the Chinese of thousands of years ago, were evolving the trial and error wisdom by which many survived until our somewhat dubious age of reason.

Truth still lies at the bottom of the well, and there is no use to quit dredging for it just because we are apt to haul up a dead cat or an old rubber boot instead.

Another Puzzling Move Is Made By Josef Stalin

By J. C. OELSTREICHER
International News Service Foreign Editor

Josef Stalin made another puzzling move today that set the world guessing. He closed the Neva river to all foreign shipping and thereby cut off Finland's Lake Ladoga from the Baltic.

Completely puzzled by this Russian step and fearful of their own independence, the Finns immediately began fortifying their narrow frontier north of the Neva.

It was inevitable that the measure should arouse Finnish concern. Though it may have been, Stalin usually has a pretty good Bolshevik reason for everything he does and it was difficult to read into closing of the Neva any desire on his part to protect the sovereignty and independence of the Baltic states.

Yet at the same time the foreign minister of Estonia was wired and urged in Moscow and apparently was given assurance that this country was completely safe from aggression and invasion.

Had Stalin then designs against Finland alone, or does this strange new chapter in Europe's war indicate once again that the Russians are not too pleased over the prospect of further Nazi expansion eastward in Europe?

Warning To Germany
Without too great a stretch of the imagination, the Neva river mystery could be interpreted as a warning to Germany. If by any chance Adolf Hitler contemplated at some time in the future a move against Germany's Courland Province, which is now Latvia, and possibly further east into the gulf of Finland and against Finland itself, he now knows that Russia is apparently determined to control these waterways and all that goes with them.

Finland for centuries was the cockpit of northern Europe, the scene of incessant strife between Sweden and Russia in ancient days. The Finns suffered terribly in each successive war between the Scandinavian Viking and the Russian imperialist but managed somehow to retain a semblance of independence.

Even in 1809, when the Swedes were defeated and handed over to Russia Finland and the Aaland Islands, Finland did not enter the Russian empire as a conquered province. Instead it obtained the status of a grand duchy and so remained until Czar Nicholas upon a new campaign of Russianization which persisted until the World War and reduced Finnish independence to its lowest ebb in history.

Then after the war and the Russian revolution, the Finns broke away entirely, inspired more by the martial music of Sibelius than any other single factor and built a great republic on its ancient blood-drenched battlefields.

HUGE SLAB OF COPPER

ONCE SERVED AS COIN

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 25.—A Swedish coin weighing 28½ pounds and having an intrinsic value of about $342, was exhibited by the Buffalo Museum of Science in connection with National Numismatic week.

The coin, minted of copper in 1660, is a rectangular slab which had an eight-thaler denomination at the time it was issued. Museum officials said the shape permitted portions to be cut off to "make change."

The slab is part of the museum's permanent Knox "evolution of money" collection. Most recent installation, before the Slab of Sweden was a coin of Croesus, the first gold coin, and "Hitler's Harmonica," inspired by the Nazi government's desire to use harmonicas in payment for American merchandise.

Twenty Projects In Relief Works Are Under Way

Twenty projects are under way in Lawrence county by the Relief Works department of the Department of Public Assistance according to Manager George Hicks. The projects are scattered over the entire county and represent about 150 employees.

Among them are projects which are cleaning ditches on highways and brushing the berms, others removing weeds on property owned by the city, others painting park benches and in a short time a number will be put to work with City Forester Owen Penfield Fox.

Projects under the Relief Works department include such jobs as do not ordinarily come under the WPA but which are of definite value to the municipalities.

Wisconsin Pine Trees Protected From Rust

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 25.—Progress in the protection of white pine trees in Wisconsin from blister rust was made this summer when 500 workers employed by eight federal state and private agencies removed nearly 3,500,000 currant and gooseberry bushes—hosts to the rust—from approximately 112,000 acres of land, according to the Wisconsin department of agriculture.

It is expected that by late fall more than 25,000 acres of white pine will have been protected in the state during 1939 bringing the total protected to well over 200,000 acres the department reports.

High Gridders Will Play Game Thursday Night

Will Go To Beaver Falls Thursday Night Instead Of Friday For Grid Battle

HOPE TO WIN THIRD STRAIGHT

The New Castle high school football team will go to Beaver Falls on Thursday night to meet the Beaver Falls Tigers at Reeves field under the lights. The game was set for Friday night originally but was moved up one day when it was found that Geneva had a game for Friday night at Beaver Falls. The game will start at eight o'clock.

The locals resumed training this afternoon for the important battle in the valley. The boys are all in good shape after the tough game with East High of Youngstown last Friday night. Outside of young Edie Sowinski there were no serious injuries.

Hope for Victory
It will be necessary now to develop a new first string sub halfback to replace Sowinski. Just who will get the job is not known. McKee filled in nicely last Friday night. John Thomas is another lad who will bear watching this year. He is also a backfield candidate and a good punter.

With two wins in two starts chalked up, the "Red Hurricanes" will try hard to make it three straight at Beaver Falls. Last year New Castle defeated the Tigers, 6 to 0, in a tough battle at Taggart field. Coach Frank Walton is reported to have another fine team this year, having topped Burgettstown in the opening game last Friday night, 13 to 0.

More drills on pass defense will be undertaken this week. New Castle looked good at the passing game last Friday and will develop more intricate pass plays led by Lindy Lauro. Head Coach Phil Bridenbaugh will smooth out a few mistakes that were made last week. The line is looking better every day. Cennamo and Zarilla continue to sparkle at the ends.

Massillon high defeated Mansfield, O., high at Mansfield on Saturday 73 to 0. This shows that the Tigers have plenty of power again this year.

Johnstown trounced Settle Dale 33 to 0. Last Friday night Sharon beat Rayen. Beaver Falls beat Burgettstown, and Grove City beat City 20 to 0.

Pitt Starting Lineup Is Much Of Problem

(Special To The News)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 25.—Pitt football fortunes, for the early part of the season at least, are very much tied up with the success Coach Charley Bowser has with the present line-up puzzle that confronts him in the arrangement of his backfield, a backfield which must be ready to go by September 30, when the Panthers meet Washington's Huskies at Seattle.

With a record series of minor injuries which have cut one available back after another from the practice lists, the Pitt coaches have been forced to teach two positions to key men in the backfield, and at present are figuring on only six backs being able to take any active part in the opener.

There is little doubt as to the starting combination. This will have Ben Kish at quarterback, Dick Cassano and Emil Narick at the halves, and Ernie Bonelli at fullback. But here all order ceases.

With Frank Goodell, Bob Thurston, Tommy Murphy and Edgar Jones all nursing hurts, there is little relief for the starting backs, unless the boys can handle two positions.

Dick Cassano at left half has George Krasium, to play behind him, but Krasium, a long striding junior, has had practically no game experience. Ben Kish can be spelled by Mike Sekela, another 200 pounder, who got into the waning moments of a few games last fall, and has shown improvement this fall. This is not certain, however, as Sekela's mother is very ill, and he is likely to be called home at any time.

When Kish gets relief at quarterback, he is expected to move over to fullback to spell Ernie Bonelli, stocky little junior, moved to fullback from a third string right half job.

Bonelli, however, will still be a halfback, for he must be ready to shift over to fill in for Emil Narick, the only back left without relief.

In any case it means double duty for a lot of boys.

With the quarter drew to a close, Bessemer started another unstoppable drive towards pay dirt. The Red and Black clad horde grabbed the oval on Hubbard's 40 and pushed it to the 27. Peto electrified the spectators by sprinting to the 12. On the next play Peto stepped back to the 17 and heaved a bullet-like pass to Moses who scored. Another aerial, Peto to Moses, gave Bessemer a 14-7 margin.

The Ohioans cashed in their lone touchdown in the second quarter. From the mid-stripe Hubbard penetrated their way to Bessemer's 40. S. Katko unleashed a pass to Watson who scampered 40 yards across the land where touchdowns bloom. Wyde split the uprights for the extra point.

Peto and Moses played brilliantly for Bessemer. McCree and Skuta played a fine game on the line. McWilliams was one of the most spectacular gridders on the field. The Ohioan's defensive play was one of the features of the exciting clash.

The lineup:
Bessemer—14. Hubbard—7. Pezzullo—14. L. E. Richards—14. McCree—14. L. G. Heckathorn—14. Skuta—14. L. G. Kaupp—14. Kertell—14. C. Corbin—14. J. McCree—14. R. G. D. Katko—14. Drahushovich—14. R. T. Defeats Bill Long 2 And 1 In Fine Match On Sunday At Castle Hills Course

Walter Vogan is the new champion at the Castle Hills golf course for the year of 1939, having defeated Bill Long yesterday in a 36-hole match 2 and 1. A crowd of over 50 followed the boys around the course and marveled at several of the intricate shots that were made by both contestants.

In the morning 18 holes Vogan was three down to Long, having shot a 73 against a 73 for Long. In the afternoon 18 Vogan shot a 72 and Long a 78, Vogan getting "hot" in the afternoon.

Cement City Eleven Registers 23rd Consecutive Victory By 14-7 Margin

PELTO-MOSES SCORE WINNING TOUCHDOWNS

(Special To The News)

BESSEMER, Sept. 25.—Clicking like a Swiss barometer, Bessemer high school's powerful gridiron juggernaut mowed down its 23rd consecutive opponent, strong Hubbard high, Saturday afternoon at Bessemer, before an excited gallery. The final score, 14-7.

Resorting mostly to power plays, the Cement City edition marched from their own 20 to Hubbard's 4 in the opening period. Charging like a bull goat, Peto slashed through the frontier line for Bessemer's initial touchdown. Shuliga rifled the piskins to Peto for the extra marker.

As the quarter drew to a close, Bessemer started another unstoppable drive towards pay dirt. The Red and Black clad horde grabbed the oval on Hubbard's 40 and pushed it to the 27. Midget Racer Is Seriously Hurt
YOUNGSTOWN, Sept. 25.—Lynne De Jane, 31, soft drink distributor from Salem, O., was seriously injured here Sunday afternoon when the midget auto he was driving collided with another car and turned over.

De Jane is in St. Elizabeth hospital with a fractured elbow, fractured leg and possible internal injuries. The accident occurred at the Mahoning County Fairgrounds near Canfield in the fifth race on the midget program. De Jane's car, traveling around a turn, climbed over the rear wheel of a racer ahead and overturned landing on top of De Jane.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

While fight fans' attention will be centered upon the Billy Conn vs. Melio Bettino 15-round bout at Pittsburgh tonight those who are unable to make the trip to Pittsburgh will await the all-star amateur show for the St. Vitus parish children's Christmas fund in the Arena here October 2.

Skyline Echraim, owned by Judge Thomas Marshall and handled by W. C. Hegocskes, Phoenixville, captured the all-age stake ranking performance of the Sewickley Kennel club at Sewickley yesterday.

Casting championship events at Highland Park, Pittsburgh, Sunday, were awarded as follows: Clyde Marshall, East Liverpool, first, dry fly accuracy and second in wet fly accuracy; George Hall, Struthers, 3-8 ounce plug accuracy and second 5-8 ounce plug event; distance, P. Angelo Columbus, 126 feet. The fly title went to Dr. R. J. Merrill, Columbus. In the 3-8 ounce plug accuracy event, which was won by Hall, C. W. Ward, Pittsburgh, well known here, took second place.

Mrs. Ethel Bishop of Greensburg won the women's Greater Greensburg golf title for the second straight year when she defeated Mrs. Larry Fuller, Greensburg, 6 and 5. Her husband, Michael, owns the men's title.

Billy Soose, who fights George Abrahams, and Harry Bobo, who battles George Hughes on tonight's card in Forbes field, fought here as amateurs, the former in the Gardens, Neshaunock avenue, and Bobo in the Arena.

The Chi-Cards defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates in a professional football game at Pittsburgh, Sunday, 10 to 0. Rochester won the Governor's cup by beating the Newark Bears at Rochester, 2 to 1, in the seventh and deciding game. Rumors are current that Frankie Frisch may pilot the Pirates next year.

Conn-Bettina Fight Tonight

Expect Crowd Of 30,000 Will Sit In On Light-Heavyweight Title Fight Tonight

CONN HOPES TO MEET JOE LOUIS

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Sept. 25.—Sweet William Conn, the pride of this "teeming industrial metropolis," will go out to defend his light-heavyweight boxing crown tonight for the first time against unorthodox Melio Bettina, from whom he captured the title last July 13.

The fight will mark the crossroads in the careers of both fighters and it is almost imperative for both their futures that they emerge the victor. That, of course, is impossible.

At stake for the handsome Pittsburgh champion will be a chance to enter into competition with the bravest—and a possible crack at champion Joe Louis, which probably will net the first million dollar gate since the Tumney-Dempsey era, if it comes to pass.

Win For Friends
Also Conn will be showing as champion before the home-town fans for the first time. He said "I gotta win for friends in Pittsburgh after all the faith they have shown in me."

Bettina, the seeking southpaw from Beacon, N. Y., weighs 155 pounds and is the business of bashed noses and cauliflower ears, in tonight's battle. Should be lost—the gambling odds are 3-1 against him—he likely will drop into oblivion.

Apparently the chunky, little Italian, who the determined heart, realizes all this, for he finished up his training by whipping his sparring partners mercilessly. He then went into seclusion until the weigh-in ceremonies today.

Expect Big Crowd
An estimated crowd of 30,000 fight fans were expected to pay a total of $70,000 for the privilege of the struggle which will be the third boxing extravaganza promoted by Mike Jacobs within ten days.

The last fight between Conn and Bettina in New York ended with the clean-cut hibernian getting the nod and the title in a very close decision. For this reason, Promoter Jacobs decided on a re-take of the savage spectacle in Conn's own backyard.

SHENANGO POTTERY GIRLS WILL BOWL

The girls of the Shenango Pottery will have an eight team duckpin league this winter, it was announced today by Miss Betty Joyce, secretary of the Shenango Pottery Bowling league. The girls will meet at 3:45 o'clock on Tuesday afternoon at the plant for an election of officers. The president of the league will be Miss Betty Schick, having been named a hort while ago. Other officers will be elected at the Tuesday session. The league will bowl at the Castle alleys and will start on October 3.

College Grid Season Opens On Saturday

A sprinkling of nationally known collegiate gridiron powers made their 1939 debut Saturday. As usual, the big timers had brisk workouts at the expense of what could be termed—small fries.

The topnotchers who made their debut, ran wild against the small fries. North Carolina, for instance, smothered the Citadel, 50-0. Mississippi State greeted the piskins campaign with a 45-0 verdict over Howard, Clemson, waiting for Tulane next Saturday, piling up an 18-0 edge over little Presbyterian and quick scoring for the day. Wake Forest, which has been pressed against the sky during the past weeks verified all those good things said about it by sidetracking South Carolina 19-7.

Florida averaged last years 16-14 defeat at the hands of Stetson, winning 21-0. North Carolina State ran into a snag but managed to come through with an 18-11 verdict over Davidson. Illinois entertained the Frosh and scored, 12-0. Texas A. and M. chose Oklahoma A. and M. for batting practice and romped home an easy 32-0 victor. Arkansas found Central Oklahoma cakes and won 32-6. Iowa State found Coe somewhat stubborn but won 19-0. Washington State took its inaugural over Gonzaga, 19-6.

As could be expected several upsets were recorded. San Jose State polished San Francisco, 16-6. Ohio U. went down 14-7. Western Kentucky Teachers doing the trick. Glenville Teachers held Salem to a 0-0 count.

Practically every nationally known college eleven inaugurates the season this coming Saturday. In this district, Pitt flies to Seattle for a tussle with the Washington Huskies, in one of the headlines. Duquesne takes on Illinois Wesleyan at Forbes Field, Friday night while Carnegie Tech, already being tabbed as one of the '39 national grid powers, lineup against Wittenberg. Grove City makes its debut against Clarion while Bethany faces the Westminster Titans. Shippery Road is slated to meet Shippensburg.

Sports World Ramblings
Shaffer in Hero Role—Freddie Shaffer was the hero of Friday's tiff which gave the Louisville Colonels the American Association diamond. The last year local blode stepped to the mound in the sixth and checked Indianapolis, who had crossed the home platter four times that inning to deadlock the score. From then on Shaffer goose-egged his foes. In the eighth he got a free ticket to first, dashed to second on a walk and scampered home with the championship run on a single. The Colonels now move along into the little world series. Shaffer will get plenty of action in this perennial classic.

Baseball Flashes—Two days before the Yankees checked in their fourth straight American League banner, 1,678 customers watched them win their record low for the season. The American Association attracted more than 1,500,000 fans during the past season, a new attendance record. Lou Gehrig has received $40,000 worth of offers for next year. He even has a chance to do a 15-minute daily broadcast. Women make up 25 per cent of the attendance.

Gridiron Nibbles—Dr. Jack Sutherland is now linked with Yale and Ohio State. If he returns to the coaching ranks I still say back to Pitt. A San Francisco griddler has a freshman griddler handled by Walter Senior Junior. The word is spreading that Michigan is the Big Ten "it". Crisler's backfield and line are tops. If they fell this year, next season for sure. South California will shoot the works in the hope of a no-hit-no-run season.

Reds And Cards Both Striving To Capture Flag

Reds In Front By Three And Half Games Over St. Louis Cardinals

WILL PLAY TWO GAMES TUESDAY

By LAWTON CARVER
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—The National league pennant race now has reached the point where we can attempt to foretell by mere hours when the last gasps will be made. Specifically, the end could arrive by sundown tomorrow, with the Cincinnati Reds finally established as the winners, the new champions and the opponents, to the best of their ability of the New York Yankees in the world series starting next week. Or the contrary St. Louis Cardinals could stave off what seems to be the bitter inevitable for another 24 hours and perhaps more.

Reds Or Cards?
Anhow, the Reds and Cards are both in the midst of winning streaks that have reached seven games, and the former still are in front by 3½ games. The showdown to everything that has transpired up to now this season may be present in Tuesday's double-header between the contenders at Cincinnati. If they can't settle it tomorrow they almost certainly will in single games on Wednesday and Thursday.

On Friday, Saturday and Sunday, the Reds wind up with the Pittsburgh Pirates and the Cards finish with the Chicago Cubs—bringing the season to a close. As things stand by this time it is almost an absolute necessity that the Cards win four straight from the Reds. Three out of the four would leave them 1½ games behind with only three left.

The Cards are playing good enough baseball right now and have been for a couple of weeks to win the pennant more often than not, but it just so happens that the Reds are in stride down through the stretch, too.

Cards Trim Cubs
The Cards, for instance, knocked the Chicago Cubs off by 9 to 1 yesterday, with Max Lanier on the mound, but the Reds trimmed the Pirates, 11 to 2, behind Paul Deringer, who scored his 24th triumph. Meantime, the Brooklyn Dodgers continued to make their presence felt in the National league scramble by defeating the Philadelphia Phillies, 3 to 1, and 6 to 1, and with that moved into third place, one-half game ahead of the Cubs and 10 behind the second place Cards.

The Boston Bees lost to the New York Giants, 5 to 4, in the opener of a twin bill and took the nightcap 5 to 3.

The New York Yankees—already in as pennant winners—clung to their 17-game lead in the American league by defeating the Washington Senators, 3 to 2, while the Boston Red Sox were downing the Philadelphia Athletics, 9 to 4. The Detroit Tigers defeated the Cleveland Indians, 2 to 1, and 9 to 1, and the Chicago White Sox won from the St. Louis Browns, 11 to 9 and 4 to 3.

NO PROFITS IN HUMAN WRECKAGE

SOME months ago before Germany invaded Poland and started what may be another great war, the Association of American Manufacturers said "No sensible person believes that profit can come out of the wreckage of human life and economic dislocation."

It was charged by many and we still hear these charges that the U. S. got into the last war because its capitalists and bankers had to save their investments in Europe.

There is very little truth in that. This fact may have added weight to the balance between war and peace.

However, no one today believes that this country, or its bankers or capitalists, will put this country into a war because we may prosper temporarily.

Profits made before the U. S. entered the last World War and during the time this country itself was engaged in war were lost in the depression years which grew out of the war.

We are still in that depression. The annual income is just now about $60,000,000,000 when it should be $80,000,000,000 or more.

There is no profit in human wreckage.

Neither is there profit and permanent prosperity in war investment as Germany, Russia, England and France will sometime find out.

The effect will also be felt in this country, however the war may terminate.

This does not mean that we should not invest more in preparation for war. We must. And we must do it immediately for national safety.

But we must realize that whatever we gain materially now we will lose when all the nations are prostrated and have wasted their substance in human wreckage.

EFFICIENCY OVER 40

Men over 40 who have been worried about getting jobs and keeping them, have reason to take courage. The tide of employer favor appears to be turning to the advantage of such men.

New York City's Sales Executives' club has conducted a survey and reports that 80 per cent of its members prefer for executive and selling employment men more than 40 years old. Reasons given were that the older men are better producers, more conscientious, less likely to deceive, more open-minded toward criticism. Also they accept unpleasant assignments more willingly and are more likely to bring in new ideas.

Stability is an asset of great value and easily offsets the loss of some of the strength and enthusiasm of youth. The man over 40 usually has come into right appreciation of home ties, community obligations and benefits, property responsibilities and the loyalties and duties which must be observed if harmonious and successful business and social relationships are to be preserved.

FROST AND FOREST COLORING

Annually, when the reds and yellows begin to appear in the woodlands, we hear the comment, "yes, it's beautiful; but just wait until after the first frost!" The old folk-tale concerning the part frost plays in the color changes of the leaves dies hard.

Those who have studied these changes, however, assure us that frost plays no part in the process. It is a matter of chemistry not yet fully understood. Throughout the spring the leaves are colored green by the presence of chlorophyll, a strange plant substance which converts carbon dioxide and water into food for the tree. When the season begins to wane, the chlorophyll slowly changes to another form, known as plastids. The plastids have a chemical coloring known as carotinoids, which react to sunlight and cooler temperatures. Some of them turn bright yellow, others turn red.

Another color factor lies in the amount of plant sugar trapped in the leaves when the branches cut off the sap veins in preparation for winter. This plant sugar reacts to chill nights and changes color, sometimes to red or purple.

Thus we get the brilliance of autumn not from the first frost but from the chemistry of the leaves themselves.

MISPLACED INDIVIDUALS

The misfit or the subnormal individual has come to be a perplexing problem in today's social structure. In former years, when the pace was not so rapid, and when the pressure of earning a living was not so great, the misfit and the subnormal got along fairly well. Today, however, efficiency has become the keynote, and the individual who can not keep up with his fellows usually is left by the wayside.

But thousands of persons held to be subnormal are merely wrongly placed in the scheme of things. There are jobs they can do well if they can be found for them. The problem, then, is one of adjustment.

Much work along these lines is being done in the public schools in a number of states and in many cities. Because a child fails in one department of school work is not accepted as final proof that he is subnormal and a complete failure. In something else he may succeed notably. Part of every teacher's duty lies in fitting the work to the child as well as fitting the child to the work.

More failures in the world can be traced to a poor start than to absolute incompetency on the part of the individual. In every walk of life there are thousands of men and women who cannot succeed because they are trying to do something for which they are not fitted. Poor unfortunate! They waste their lives either because they will not quit, vainly hoping that if they keep on plodding and plugging they will win, or because they know not which way to turn.

The wolf huffed and puffed, and puffed and huffed, before blowing the house in. But aerial warfare dispenses with the cruel preliminaries.

The age of discretion is whenever you get over the idea that one side is all good and one all bad.

A new spray, successfully tried in Maryland, keeps apples from falling. An invention that would keep the price suspended on high would be regarded as a greater boon by growers, however.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

CURE COUNTING IN ARITHMETIC

We have pointed out that a leading hindrance to progress in arithmetic is the counting habit. But this trouble is only in addition and subtraction. The simple multiplication facts the child learns mechanically; he is never taught to count them out. But when he is taught to add or subtract, he learns to do so by counting them out. When, for example, he sees four with two under it, he says to himself "fixe, six". Perhaps his teacher has his first count four books and two books, four boys and two boys, four strokes and two strokes, and so on. By and by he learns to count while adding, by imagining such objects, by touching his fingers, tapping with them, wriggling a loose tooth or the like—and these habits tend to stick to him.

Whereas he can count very rapidly when he sees two and one under it, three and one, five and two, and so on, the task is far harder when he sees six with seven under it. It takes him longer and he is the more easily lost in the process.

Now if you will take the trouble to examine practically every textbook in primary arithmetic, and every course of study in this subject printed in America, you will find that the child is supposed to be taught first those very number combinations which are most easily counted, such as one and one, one and two, two and two, etc. How this child is to escape learning the counting habit as he adds is more than you and I can understand. Well, he doesn't; that's the trouble. Then for several years he is tortured by innumerable speed tests with a view of training out of him this counting habit.

Here is a simple, practical way of helping the child who has acquired this pernicious counting habit—and most children of the third, fourth and fifth grades have it. Put down the whole number fact. For example, put down eight. Put nine under it. Draw a line under nine. Under the line put 17. Have the child say to himself as he looks carefully at this whole combination, "eight and nine are 17," and say it over and over till he knows it by heart. Have him attack only a few at a sitting, taking his good time, never guessing, being very careful never to make a mistake. There are only 100 of the simple addition facts and 100 of the subtraction facts. When I was about nine years old, I thought there were a million of them!

Keep the child on the addition facts until all the hundred are mastered perfectly, no matter what the plan may be at school. Then let him attack, in like fashion, the subtraction facts.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

SECURITY FIRST

Congress is now in special session and the purpose of the special session is to pass legislation calculated to prevent us from being entangled in a general war in which our vital interests as a nation are not directly involved nor directly threatened. In modern war there are no neutral rights which are respected by belligerents when belligerents think they can secure an advantage by violating them. Consequently, if we are to avoid war unless it is forced upon us in a threat to our national security, we must be content to abandon most, if not all, of our "neutral rights" of which there was so much talk in the "Great War." We are determined to avoid war except for defense of our national security. Therefore, we must abandon these so-called "neutral rights."

These rights mainly concerned the safety of persons (and property) of neutral nations in their dealings with belligerents or among themselves. They constituted an attempt to keep a certain measure of "business as usual" going during the war. As war is conducted today such an attempt is both futile and dangerous, wherever and wherever there are zones in which war is carried on. Consequently, the only safe policy, the only policy which will ensure our neutrality is to keep our nationals and their property out of these war-zones.

War-zones are neither easy to define nor fixed as to position. But they must be defined if our nationals are to keep themselves and their property out of them, and somebody must define them, both at the start and from time to time. The only safe principle in defining them, safety first.

The logic of "safety first" points plainly to the "cash and carry" principle, which would prevent either our nationals or their property entering war-zones. That this might, in fact, favor one belligerent as against another is neither our fault nor our concern, and there is no way possible by which we could equalize the impact of such policy on all the belligerents without greatly increasing the danger of our involvement. We cannot be sure in advance that a rigid "cash and carry" policy will keep us out, but there is no more effective protection that can be devised—certainly none has been suggested.

That logic demands that our nationals shall clearly understand that if they take their persons or their property into any defined war-zone they can expect no protection from the armed forces of the United States.

A policy such as this is not flattering to our national pride. But national pride and national security are two different things and if we want security we must be content to put pride in second place.

LIFE'S LITTLE AGONIES
When the time came for the reading of the farmer's will, it was found that all his property was left jointly to his two sons, Donald and Hamish. But the boys found it quite impossible to agree on the division of the estate.

They took the problem to the local professor and asked for his solution.
"It is simple," said the learned man. "You, Donald, will divide the property as you see fit."
Donald beamed with pleasure and Hamish's face clouded.
"And you, Hamish," continued the old man, "will take which ever half you please."

If all we say
In a single day
With never a word left out,
Were printed at night
In clear black and white,
'Twould make queer reading, no doubt.

And then just suppose
Ere one's eyes would close
We must read the whole record
Through,
Then wouldn't one sigh,
And wouldn't one try
That a deal of less talking he'd do?

And I more than half think
That many a kink
Would be smothered out in life's

If the half we say
In a single day,
Were forever left unsaid.

She gets married.

"Why, certainly," said the clerk. "Always pleased to oblige."
"You're sure it will be no trouble?" persisted the man.
"No, not at all, sir. We're always glad to take something out of the window."

"That's fine, then," said the man, heartily. "That hat bothers me every time I pass your store. Isn't it a horrible looking thing?"

TOLD HOW IT WAS
Getting all the stuff into the paper that people want printed is an awful job sometimes. Here is how our country editor explained his inability to crowd all the stuff in:
"Owing to lack of space and the rush of getting this edition into print, we regret that several births, deaths and marriages will have to be postponed until next week."

BLISS IN DARKNESS
"That tunnel we just went through cost $10,000,000," said the conductor, conversationally to a young couple as the train emerged from the darkness.
"Gee," said the girl. "That's a lot of money for a hole in the ground, isn't it dear?"

"Certainly," said the young man. "But, gosh, it sure was worth it."

COOPERATION
Hornets work together. So do bees. A bee hive is a wonderful testimony to what working together—each for all and all for each—can accomplish. Ants are also cooperators and every ant-hill testifies to result-giving powers of cooperation. A wise man was once asked which is the most important—labor, capital or management. He answered with a twinkle. "Which is the most important leg of a three-legged stool?"

Cooperation is the key word in business. It is the one direct road to prosperity, both for individuals and large groups. If a man is to be a good cooperator—a worker with others—not a worker against nor for, but with.

Russo-Jap Accord Is Important
United States Much Concerned
Japanese Chances Are Improved

By CHARLES P. STEWART

Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—The Russo-Japanese accord, together with about as much of a headache to Uncle Sam as the Anglo-Franco-German situation is. Potentially, perhaps, it's an even worse one.

Conceivably Uncle Samuel can remain indefinitely on the European sidelines. But if the Japs are to have a free hand in China his toes are pretty certain to be trampled on in a fashion that neither his feelings nor his interests will make it easy for him to submit to without expressing his resentment very forcibly.

To be sure, the suspension of Russo-Japanese hostilities along the Mongolian-Manchurian frontier is spoken of in Moscow and Tokio as the result of a truce of no great consequence.

The fact remains that said hostilities are suspended. Even before their suspension Russia had begun to take such an interest in doing on its western border that Dictator Stalin may imaginably have been anxious to get the Japanese off his hands to the eastward. Also, the truce having been arranged, it's noteworthy that the Japs immediately and emphatically intensified their campaign to conquer China. They were hampered in this campaign while their undeclared war with the Russians lasted.

The essential point from the American angle is that the mikado appears materially to have improved his chances of gaining complete control on the eastern Asiatic mainland, south of Siberia—and possibly he has it in the back of his head to grab that, too, later.

But as a Kaleidoscope
It's no secret that Tokio wants to drive Occidentals out of China proper.

The Chinese object—not necessarily because they're pro-Occidental, but because they're opposed to being gobbled by Nippon, and most Occidentals, for their own selfish reasons, likewise prefer not to have Nippon gobble them.

Consequently, when the Japs undertook to assimilate them, the Chinese had the sympathy of Americans, British, French and Russians. The Dutch and Portuguese sympathized, too, but they're too pee-wee to signify. For that matter, sympathy's the only thing Americans have helped the mainlanders with thus far.

Britain and France, however, have aided them with military supplies, shipped in through such back doors as Hongkong and French Indo-China. Now, though, the British and French are too busy in the west to keep these rear doors open. Furthermore, they need all their supplies for European consumption. Russia has been of still more solid assistance to Chiang Kai-Shek's Chinese government. The Russians not only have provided Chiang with fighting materials; they've waged physical war against the Japs on the Mongolian-Manchurian line, preventing the latter from concentrating against Chiang in a southerly direction.

Then came the Russo-German pact, relieving Stalin of any urgent worries on his west front. The conclusion seemed to be that he was thus left free to deal wholeheartedly with the Japs to the eastward, greatly to China's benefit.

Today, instead, it develops that Russia is concerned rather with the west than the east—it wants a chunk of Poland more than it wishes to dominate China.

Nice for the Japs
Hence that Russo-Japanese truce. The mikado probably can lick Chiang if he hasn't any Occidental backers.

Well, Russia at least temporarily is out of the picture. Britain and France have their hands full in Europe. It looks like quick work for (Continued On Page Five)

QUATRAINS For a Soldier

A soldier, I
Am and unafraid,
Sent out to die,

For a Doctor
I dealt with others' hurt and pain
And did my best to cure them.
But found that all my skill was vain
At my time to endure them.

For a Minister

The joy in which he long believed,
Rejoice with him who now has
The simpler life of which he preached.

The Human Side Of The News

(By EDWIN C. HILL)

Copyright 1939 King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Several days running, I peeked through a hole in the wall into the shell of the old Hippodrome, now being torn down. In the ruck of gaunt steel ribs and shattered and tattered stucco and plaster there was one hold-out. It was a modest little lunette flanking the big stage.

A bit of seascape against placid hills in Greece, perhaps, or it might have been Capri, or the Riviera. It is, no doubt, a quite undistinguished painting or perhaps, by this time, was. I remembered it vaguely from the old days. But here in all this noise and litter, with plaster dust filling the blasted enclosure and blow torches hissing ruthlessly through steel beams, it took on a strange serenity and beauty. One felt that the sun would forever shine on those still water Sophocles found "Time a Gentle Deity," but in the quickened tempo of our days he is sometimes harsh.

It would be nice to think that a workman would step up to the foreman and say, "Boss, you'll have to get somebody else to sink a pick into that picture. That's a nice painting and you ought to let it ride." But of course, it can't happen. In these days of imperative change and tension, the picks and the bombs fall on the just and the unjust alike. While I was peering into the enclosure a workman methodically smacked a plaster angel in the face with a hammer. It had to be. All things temporal, even if they rate the pro forma tear of tender retrospection, have a short life-span these days—only 34 years for the Hippodrome, which we have affectionately called the "old Hip."

Whatever did become of those 75 girls who walked down into the huge tank and never came up? The program assured you that they were unharmed, but somehow you felt uneasy about it for days afterwards. I hope they are all living happily suburban matrons, perhaps, or even grandmothers by this time.

Of course there are memories of Sara Bernhardt and Annette Kellerman, the diving Venus, with her first form-fitting bathing suit, and Fokine, and more recently Billy Rose's "Jumbo" and 99-cent opera. But I found myself thinking mostly of that incomparable zany who used to rib the big shows. He was a tumble-footed little man, getting in everybody's way, at his best in the great spectacles, somehow subtly deflating and debunking all these splendors with his inspired anti-climax. I could reel off the names of dozens of the Hip stars of the old days, but this name is gone—and I have an idea that it is all the one most worth remembering.

It was billed eloquently as "the largest and most magnificent playhouse in the world," and no doubt it was quite certainly the largest. Fred Thomson, playboy of the amusement world, a relic of the Gilded Age, who had dreamed great fantastic, promoted it, with the backing of John W. (Betha Million) Gates and others. It cost around $4,000,000, and quite a few other millions marched down into the big tank, like chorus girls. It was first under the control of the Shuberts, and then of Keith, and sank into foreclosure early in the depression years. Time and again it was bought, but it was indispensable to the ways of orderly living must be preserved.

NEW YORK—Sen. Patrick A. McCarran opposes "cash and carry" aid for belligerents.

"Once before we put up the cash and we've been carrying it ever since."

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt pledges neutrality to Gold Star Mothers.

"In the present harrowing conflict we are determined that this republic, insofar as lies within the power of its government, shall remain aloof—truly and honestly neutral."

Beta Chapter To Have Conference In Ellwood City

Over Two Hundred Young People Expected To Participate In Large Meeting

ELLWOOD CITY, Sept. 26.—Details of the coming Beta conference, October 13 and 14 were discussed at the meeting of the Beta chapter last evening in the old City Building. Miss Francis Wimer, chairman of the entertainment committee, reported that various plans were well under way for the special programs and social events for the visitors, who, it is expected, will number two hundred, coming from various towns and cities in western Pennsylvania.

The meeting opened with a devotional service led by Miss Betty Wilson. A feature of the meeting was an excellent talk on "Denmark" given by Miss Virginia Guldbrandson, who has recently returned from a visit to that country. She discussed the fact that when she left, the Danes seemed little concerned about the war situation that is disrupting so many countries in the old world.

School Committee Will Try New Traffic Gate Here

ELLWOOD CITY, Sept. 26.—A special committee from the Chamber of Commerce, led by School Superintendent J. Ellis Bell, G. B. Hancher, clerk of the Board of Education, and Borough Manager Lowell Monroe, will inspect a new type of traffic gate for the school children at the Circle school tomorrow morning.

The gates are much like railroad crossing gates and are badly needed at the Fountain and Fourth street crossing.

Should the special committee recommend the gates for use here at the Circle school the Vance Coal company and Old Furnace Coal company will donate them to the school board and city.

This is a splendid civic gesture on the part of these two coal companies as parents who have children attending the Circle school are worried over the school crossing at it is now regulated.

Success Attends V. F. W. Card Party

ELLWOOD CITY, Sept. 26.—Eighteen tables of cards were in play at the V. F. W. card party in the hall in Fourth street last evening.

At the conclusion of a series of interesting games score honors for bridge went to Mrs. James Goodwill and Mrs. Ferd Zeigler; for 500 to Mrs. S. E. Haddock and Mrs. Ralph Cross, and for bingo to Mrs. Paul Terleza and Mrs. Bertha Gordon.

In charge of the affair were Mrs. Austin Patterson and Mrs. William Eidenmiller. There will be another card party October 9 in the hall with Mrs. R. E. Miller and Mrs. Robert Newton in charge.

C. A. Martin Class Enjoys Dinner Meet

ELLWOOD CITY, Sept. 26.—Twenty-five members of the C. A. Martin Bible class, of the First Presbyterian church, enjoyed a monthly luncheon dinner meeting in the dining room of the church last evening.

At tables decorated with fall flowers and foliage a well-balanced menu was served by the committee in charge. Following the dinner a short business session and social period were enjoyed by the members.

AUXILIARY PLANS FOR CARD PARTY

ELLWOOD CITY, Sept. 26.—Twenty-five members of the Firemen's Auxiliary enjoyed a meeting last evening in the Fire hall. At this time plans were completed for a card party next Monday evening as part of a series of winter events. Mrs. Arthur Duncan is hostess.

At the conclusion of the business meeting last evening bingo games were enjoyed with prizes going to Mrs. Edna Kingston and Mrs. Mary Henry. The next regular meeting of the auxiliary will occur October 9 at the same place.

MISSIONARY ALLIANCE

ELLWOOD CITY, Sept. 26.—Program of events this week in the Christian Missionary Alliance opens with a prayer service this evening at 7:30 o'clock followed by Bible study.

Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 there will be a missionary prayer meeting in charge of Mrs. Harry Hughes. Wednesday evening at 7:30 members of the Young People's society will meet.

Thursday evening at 7:30 the regular weekly prayer meeting takes place. Saturday evening at 8 o'clock there will be a street meeting at the corner of Seventh and Lawrence avenues.

Departing Pastor And Wife Honored

Young People Of Church Honor Rev. And Mrs. Milton May, Last Night

ELLWOOD CITY, Sept. 26.—Honoring the Rev. and Mrs. Milton May, of the Immanuel Reformed church who leave on the 15th to accept a new church in Wilkes-Barre, members of the Young Peoples Council held their first fall meeting in the form of a dinner last evening in the dining room of the First M. E. church.

A delicious menu was served by the members at tables centered with fall garden flowers. The honor couple was presented with a handsome desk set by Miss Hannah Lowrey, new president of the council. Rev. May responded with suitable remarks. The meeting opened with grace offered by Mr. Carson, and Paul Wyrick acted as master of ceremonies, introducing little Janice McKim, small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert McKim, who, accompanied by her mother on the plane, rendered a difficult and lengthy reading in a most professional manner for one of her limited years.

Another enjoyable feature of the meeting was the group singing, led by Miss Edith Denniston, with Robert Stevenson at the piano. At the conclusion of the program an informal farewell reception was tendered Rev. and Mrs. May, whose departure from the activities of the Young Peoples council will be greatly missed as they have aided largely in its growth and success.

Wurtemberg P. T. A. Hears Talk At Monthly Meeting

ELLWOOD CITY, Sept. 26.—Members of the Wurtemberg Parent and Teachers association enjoyed a monthly meeting in the Perry Consolidated school building last evening and heard an interesting talk by Mrs. Houk on Parents and Children, their related bonds and obligations toward each other and educational problems. Mrs. Houk, who is a teacher, brought an interesting angle to the age old question.

The devotional service was led by the Rev. James Caughey. President Jack Kimpel conducted the business session and inducted as new secretary, Mrs. Houk, with Mrs. Jesse Young as assistant. There was further discussion concerning the advisability of sponsoring a Boy Scout troop but no definite decision was reached.

Large Garage In Park Gate Burns

Five Privately Owned Automobiles Burned When Blaze Breaks Out Early This Morning

ELLWOOD CITY, Sept. 26.—A fire alarm was turned in at 2 o'clock this morning when a large garage in Park Gate was reported to be burning.

The owner, said to be a Mr. Nathas, was not present, and the total damage to the place could not be estimated by the local fire department which was called in the place burned along with the building, in spite of every effort made to save the structure.

In mid-afternoon an alarm was turned in from the Fourth ward, which proved to be merely a brush fire, at 508 Todd ave., which was quickly extinguished.

CAR DRIVER IS EXONERATED IN ACCIDENT CASE

ELLWOOD CITY, Sept. 26.—According to a decision announced by Justice of the Peace Sneed, of Wiley Hill, before whom a hearing was held, some time ago, Lee Badger of Conowingo, Pa., was exonerated of blame in an accident which occurred August 10 when the Badger car collided with one driven by David Williams, on the road between Wurtemberg and Frisco.

REQUESTS REPORT

ELLWOOD CITY, Sept. 26.—Anyone noticing a forest fire in Lawrence County, please notify Charles Pollette, fire warden, residence 729 Line avenue, Ellwood City, telephone 723-M.

ELLWOOD PERSONALS

Roland Haines, of Pittsburgh, was a visitor in town yesterday.

Mrs. Chester Patterson was a New Castle visitor this morning.

Miss Rose Mary Smith, of Pittsburgh, is visiting at the home of Mrs. William Brophy, of Wurtemberg Heights this week.

Miss Florence Oswald, of this city, embarked on the Cuban Mail liner Monterey for a tour of Mexico and Havana. She expects to be gone for three weeks.

Prof. James Matheny, his mother, Mrs. Matheny, and sister, Miss Grace Matheny, returned to their home in Philadelphia, concluding a week-end visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Buzzard, of Second street.

Rebekahs Elects New Officers At Business Meeting

ELLWOOD CITY, Sept. 26.—Officers for the coming year were elected at a meeting of the Rebekah lodge in the First National bank building last evening. Von Ribbentrop Goes To Moscow (International News Service) MOSCOW, Sept. 26.—German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop will arrive in Moscow tomorrow to discuss problems connected with developments in Poland. It was stated that Von Ribbentrop will come to the Soviet capital at the invitation of Soviet authorities.

Previous reports from Tokyo stated Von Ribbentrop would go to Moscow to sign a Russo-German military pact supplementing the Moscow-Berlin non-aggression agreement.

The Tokyo newspaper Asahi predicted that the European war would advance another step with conclusion of the reported military pact.

According to Asahi, German and Russian military authorities already have reached agreement regarding many details of the military agreement.

Civil Service Setup Probed

Preliminary Hearing Behind Closed Doors By Joint Legislative Investigating Committee

(International News Service) HARRISBURG, Sept. 26.—The joint legislative committee investigating civil service in the state unemployment compensation division conducted a preliminary hearing today behind closed doors.

Chairman C. Gilbert Wolfenden, Republican senator from the Indiana-Jefferson district, disclosed that three earlier meetings have been held by the committee. Within two weeks, he said, the committee will open its sessions to the public.

Among those questioned privately by the committee, according to Sen. Wolfenden, were Ernest Kelly, head of the unemployment compensation division, and Melvin Jacobs, chairman of the State Unemployment Compensation Board of Review.

"We have received numerous letters containing complaints and suggestions," said Wolfenden, "and are getting the utmost cooperation from all concerned in this investigation. The committee's findings will be reported at the next session of the legislature."

The inquiry into the civil service setup climaxed complaints that appointments and examinations for compensation jobs were "unfair."

Large Barn At Game Farm Burns

Loss Of Around $5,000 Is Sustained In Blaze At Jordan Farm

Fire of undetermined origin, which started at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon, destroyed a large barn at the Jordan State Game Farm, Superintendent Kenneth N. Brennan stated today. A loss of around $5,000 was sustained, but whether the loss is covered by insurance is not known by Mr. Brennan, these records being kept at Harrisburg.

The barn contained considerable equipment and feed used at the game farm, representing a value of around $2,000. Mr. Brennan stated. The loss has been reported to the Game Commission at Harrisburg and whether steps will be taken to rebuild the structure at once is not known, as Mr. Brennan has received no word from them as yet in this regard.

When the fire was discovered it had gained considerable headway, and there was nothing which could be done to extinguish it.

The barn was a structure 40 by 50 feet in size, and was located near the superintendent's headquarters. There is another and newer barn on the property located near the main entrance.
